EX-GOVERNOR COX, JOHN W. DAVIS WILL ASSIST DEMOCRATS

Former Party Standard
Bearers Enlist Behind Smith.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Democratic campaign managers today answered the inquest "bolt movement" in the south with the announcement that two national standard bearers of previous years had enlisted "for the duration of the war" in the front ranks of the aggressive Smith-Roosevelt forces.

They are James M. Cox, of Ohio, and John W. Davis, of West Virginia. Democratic presidential nominees of 1920 and 1924, respectively.

Davis told Chairman John J. Raskob at the national headquarters here that he is subject to call for any part the national executive committee may select for him in the campaign.

Cox, who came to New York primarily to see the Tunney-Heeny financial disaster, was a caller at headquarters today. Raskob indicated clearly that he had a major role in the campaign selected for the former Ohio governor, but declined to reveal the nature of the job.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was Cox's running mate in 1920, is a member of the executive committee.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who was himself a presidential candidate against Smith in the Houston convention, was a third party stalwart to enlist in the campaign today.

"My first job will be to carry Maryland for Smith and Robinson," Ritchie said. "But I am subject to call for duty in the national campaign whenever I can be of service."

Governor Smith invited Ritchie to New York for "a talk" today. Smith is scheduled to arrive from Albany late this afternoon. He will take dinner with Ritchie and then hurry to Good Ground, L. I., for a long weekend far from the dizzy din of presidential politics.

Smith will occupy the estate of the late Charles F. Murphy, former chairman of Tammany hall, for his rest. There will be "no politics" there, Smith has announced emphatically. Governor Ritchie plans to return to Baltimore tonight.

The Democratic drive for the labor vote was launched today under the direct supervision of George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union, and one of the founders of the American Legion.

Berry will undertake to organize a national labor committee, with representatives in every state to carry the Smith appeal to the millions of unorganized workers. The campaign among union workers will be conducted chiefly through central trade bodies.

"This is one time wherein capital and labor can join hands upon the political field," Berry said in his acceptance of the appointment from Chairman Raskob, a director and vice-president in General Motors.

The public announcement of former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma that he would support Herbert Hoover, and the withdrawal of Senator Simmons of North Carolina as a member of the Democratic national committee—both of which came on the same day—struck a heavy blow at national headquarters, despite the outward calm with which they were received. Neither was expected and the repercussion of the double-barreled uppercut served to emphasize in the minds of the nation strategy board the significance of the prospective campaign in the solid South. Before the Simmons and Owen statements, the South was taken for granted. Now the territory is again discussed in the daily meetings of the executive committee. Reports from yesterday's meeting, the first since the two declarations hit the street in print, indicate that the entire Southern campaign program may be reconsidered.

Following the identification, detectives visited Mrs. Monroe's apartment and reported discovery of a piece of cardboard upon which had been written: "Please notify my sister, Mrs. A. B. McDonald by telephone at McKeesport, Pa."

Written in a feminine hand, the note for the present, caused a murder theory to be discarded, police declared. It was at first believed the woman had been slain.

PEKING, July 27.—America's note offering to enter into treaty negotiations with the victorious Nationalists and pledging American aid to restore Chinese tariff autonomy was regarded by the Nationalists today as virtually a de jure recognition of the Nationalist government by the United States.

America, the nationalist leaders said, is the first foreign power to award such recognition. The leaders were highly elated over the American offer, saying it would put the National administration in a strategic position to negotiate with other nations for revision of treaties.

Japanese diplomatic quarters described the note as "a bolt from the blue."

It was pointed out by diplomatic representatives of the other powers that the proposed American-Chinese treaty would be of no practical value so far as restoration of tariff autonomy is concerned until accepted and ratified by the 16 extra-territorial signatory nations. These are the powers which agreed to foreign regulation of Chinese tariffs and put their agreement into treaty form.

As there are two factions in the Nationalist party the course which the Chinese government may follow is uncertain. The conservatives probably will favor acceptance of the American offer while the radical element may oppose it.

DRY LAW FEATURES BAR DISCUSSIONS

SEATTLE, Wash., July 27.—The question of prohibition still crackled and sizzled here today before the fifty-first annual convention of the American Bar Association.

"The prohibition law must be obeyed or amended."

That was the assertion made here today by Silas M. Strawn, of Chicago, president of the organization.

A similar pronouncement has been made by Jacob Mark Lashley, president of the St. Louis Bar Association.

"Violence has increased enormously in urban centers," Strawn continued. "Most of it can be laid at the door of bootleggers and other rum law violators."

"Widespread indifference to the prohibition law has created an alarming disregard for all laws, particularly among the young people," "Crime surveys in New York, Missouri and Illinois reveal a national peril. That peril is growing greater daily."

JOHN W. PRUGH
Mayor of Xenia

I am announcing my candidacy for Probate Judge, subject to the Republican Primary election, August 14th.

I have resided in Xenia for fifty years and have always been active in the progress of the city. I have given my time and means to advance the city and county's interests. Served a number of terms in City Council, served two years as State Superintendent of Building and Loan Companies of Ohio; Vice President and a Director of the Home Building and Savings Company, of Xenia, and a member of its Appraising Committee. Active in war work, being Chairman of the committee raising funds for the Y. M. C. A., served on Liberty Loan Committee, and am now a member of the City Commission, and for two and one half years have been Mayor of the City of Xenia.

All these positions have come to me unsolicited by myself. My record as Mayor is an open book. I have never had a breath of scandal against me in office and never before asked for a county office. In every public position I have always looked out for the interest of the people. I am a member of the Presbyterian Church and have served on its Board of Deacons a number of years, and I believe in enforcing the laws.

If chosen for the office I aspire to all business will be done in fairness and dispatch. I am controlled by no action and have no political debts to pay. For the last twenty-eight years I have been in the Real Estate business, during which time I have handled many millions of dollars in sales.

In view of the above I solicit your vote on August 14, 1928, at the Republican primary.

Signed,
JOHN W. PRUGH,
Political Adv.

WOMEN RAISE FUNDS TO CONDITION PARK TENNIS COURTS HERE

A group of women who have interested themselves in conditioning the tennis courts in Shawnee Park are holding a market Saturday as one means of raising money to finance the project.

The market will open at Abe Hyman's fruit store at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and the women interested in the movement are accepting donations of money for the work they plan or donations of food for the market.

Mrs. Paul B. Yockey, who is actively interested in the project, says that one court has become partly overgrown with weeds while the other had a bad low spot that needs filling. The courts have never been permanently striped, and the women propose to have them permanently marked with tape.

Mothers of young people who make use of the courts and of the park, are identified with the money-raising project as well as T. H. Zell, chairman of the park association. Anyone wishing to donate either food or money to the project should call Mrs. Yockey, Mrs. H. L. Sayre or Miss Zella Soward.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DANGER SIGNALS—Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder. Thine eyes shall behold strange women, and thine heart shall utter perverse things.—Prov. 23: 31, 32, 33.

MANAGING A GREAT CAMPAIGN

Those in charge of the campaign of the two leading candidates have a tremendous job on their hands. It is not surprising that the selection of these people causes much anxiety and often controversy.

It is a job calling first for much executive ability. A person without administrative gifts would be running around in circles, wasting his own time and that of his subordinates, letting vital matters go while he attended to non-essentials. The difficulty is increased by the fact that the work must all be done within four months. It is a brief period in which to lead a movement to shape the opinions and action of the nation.

The difficulty is complicated by the fact that public sentiment now says that the organization should not spend nearly as much money as formerly. Publicity of expenditure is demanded, and the party that spends an amount that seems to the voters excessive, may be worse off than one that did not have enough money for a reasonable presentation of its cause.

The men at the head of the national party organization must have the gift of arousing enthusiasm. They must be able to hire their supporters with the desire and determination to win, incite thousands of people all over the country to get out and work for their candidates, and in addition be real diplomats to avoid embarrassing scraps.

STILL KEEPING COOL

It is not exactly certain yet just what the Republican slogan will be in this campaign. But it will be remembered that the party slogan in the last presidential campaign was "Keep Cool with Coolidge." The country did so for four years, but he did not choose for it to keep cool with him for another term.

It is noteworthy, however, that Mr. Coolidge himself is still keeping cool. No matter how hot it may be here, or in other cities, Coolidge is cool in Brule, and Brule is keeping cool with Coolidge.

"The extreme heat reported in the middle west has not been felt in this region, overcoats and furnace fires being in order of the day," it is reported from Superior, Wis., relay point for correspondence from the President's summer camp.

While the whole country may hoop'er up for Hoover, it also wishes it would keep cool with Coolidge.

She used to boast that he was an ideal husband. Now she is a grass widow looking for a new model.

"A silent woman is a lovely thing," sings a poet. Perhaps; but it is hard to make women think so.

Man is still optimist by nature: He never refers to them as get-poor-quick schemes.

BIG FIGURES

There are a billion and three-quarters of people inhabiting this speck in the limitless universe which we call the earth. Perhaps millions on some other planet, seeing its faint light in the far heavens, call it something else. No matter what it is, it is where you live at the moment, and for only a moment. More than 33 millions of these people most of them knowing little of what it is all about, die every year. The death rate is more than 90,000 daily—about 4,000 an hour, 60 a minute, one every second. Only one man in every thousand reaches the age of 100. And a hundred years is but a fleeting moment in the eternal passage of time. One in 500 reaches the age of 80. Six in a thousand live to be 65. In a mere hundred years there will be hardly a handful of men on all the earth who are alive today. And those few who are alive will be mostly useless curiosities. If we can think only in terms of our little lives on this planet it is not worth while for us to think at all, or to live at all.

CRIME

Those who read these lines today may set it down as a fact that by this time next year more than 10,000 persons will have died from murder in the United States. In one year in one large American city there have been more than in all England. There is more than one reason. Perhaps American court practice, which provides many and convenient delays all along the road from arrest to conviction—when there is conviction—is the principal cause. Some say publicity is a cause of crime. The facts are all against that. There is just as much publicity given crime in Europe as in America. And yet, European countries, compared with our own, are law abiding.

OBEDIENCE

Speaking of crime the record of Denmark is remarkable. Denmark, that peaceful little land that lies toward the north of Europe, believes in capital punishment. It has a law that persons shall be executed for murder. And yet Denmark's latest execution was in 1886.

One writer wonders if the movement to outlaw war is going to mean the abolition of matrimony.

If you must reduce, try being a dejected lover.

It is remarked that people don't get as mad as formerly about politics, but if they would get a little madder, they might get out and vote.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 27.—"Equal rights for men," is the slogan of a campaign which is the result of wrath generated in an anonymous wealthy New Yorker when, clad in knickers and minus a coat, he was refused service at his favorite restaurant. He has hired a press agent and given him the job of popularizing the wearing of knickers by men at all hours and on all occasions.

The sponsor set the ball rolling toward the goal by ordering all his male employees to wear knickers to work upon pain of dismissal.

The press agent is working on a campaign which provides for the hiring of a squad of husky, handsome, beknickered and coatless men to regularly seek admittance to exclusive restaurants, theatres, etc., and to start "trouble" is barred. He has also thought out a poster showing a man in knickers and a girl in the so-called flapper costume, with the lines, "Why MUST I wear four times as much as she does to be modest?" Another poster he has in mind would show a man in knickers alongside George of England in court costume (which includes satin short pants), and the lines, "If they're stylish enough for the king, they're good enough for me."

Roses wilt quickly in Broadway's searing lights. Patricia Salmon, Montana cowgirl entertainer, arrived in Manhattan on a tremendous wave of publicity, to be a star in "The Follies." For two years she was a featured attraction, then she faded. Now she is a hostess in a Broadway night club, unheeded, unsung, unwept, as the phrase goes. She tried recently to get back into the spotlight by entering an endurance dancing contest, and Broadway had forgotten her name, which used to shine brightly in blazing letters a foot high. But she isn't going back to Montana.

"God, no—not to those two-shack towns. The worst that happens in New York is better than the best out there."

Chicagoans know how to make themselves at home in New York. The other morning a Windy City man issued forth from a night club feeling pretty good, but not good enough to walk to his hotel. All his efforts to hail a taxi were in vain, so discovering a phone box on a neighboring pole, he first demanded a taxi, and then when told it was late, he demanded a patrol wagon. The latter was obligingly sent, and he was hospitably toted to his hotel and handed over to the clerk to be put to bed.

The only explanation is that Police Commissioner Warren recently ordered his cops to be polite to visitors.

The head of a Wall Street brokerage house keeps a gross carton of lollipops in his desk and eats them as he works. He offers them to visitors instead of cigars.

The preferred routes of a concern which delivers milk in bottles are in the financial district. Drivers seek them because of the six-day and frequently five-day week. Thousands of bottles of milk are delivered in the various office buildings to workers who lunch at their desks.

Before prohibition, virtually no retail milk deliveries were made in offices in the financial district.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

I happened to be in a clothing store when a man came in to buy a suit of clothes. Accompanied by his buxom, jolly-faced wife, she laughingly apologized to the clerk for coming alone.

"I dare say you find wives a great nuisance in here," she suggested. "It must be bad enough to have to satisfy the man who is to wear the suit without having to please his wife also."

"That's where you're utterly mistaken," gravely replied the clerk. "I'd far rather have a man's wife right with him. Then man's wife will sell him a suit it will stay sold. I can make the sale in less time, too. When a man is alone he hems and haws, all the time secretly wondering if the color or material that he likes will please his wife. He is slow coming to a decision because he doesn't know what his wife will say. Maybe after he does make a selection, his wife frowns on it at home, and then the clerk has to sell him a suit all over again. But if the wife's along, the whole problem is soon settled."

EMERGENCY AIDS FOR VACATIONISTS

If your vacation is to mean all that it should to you, there are certain precautions you will not overlook.

Summer ills may range all the way from poison ivy to sunburn. Considering all the unpleasant things that can happen on a two weeks' trip, the initiate vacationist will not fail to provide herself with good, sane, preventives.

For the first of these I suggest boric acid. For the eyes, for bites, for the bruises and thorn scratches that are part of every child's summer excursions, for a soothing wash, in fact for a dozen antiseptic, refreshing uses this simple solution is unexcelled. You may either buy it ready made or make your own by dissolving two teaspoonsful of the powder in a cup of warm water, which has been previously boiled, until the lotion is perfectly clear.

Let cool, bottle and cork tightly. Often changes of climate or food bring out little blotches on the skin. Summer heat rash occurs frequently among children and young people. For this I suggest the following preparation.

Elderflower water, seven oz.; glycerine, one ounce; borax, one-half dram.

Apply it night and morning, and should the irritation be severe, during the day, as often as required.

Diet and Health

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor: If you could only read my diary and know of the many, many struggles I have gone through to reduce, but always with failures! Now I know that my diets were all wrong and that Nature still continued to count my calories while I didn't. But now! Why, your system causes no feeling of deprivation at all, and while starving on my blanket of fat, my body is properly fed and my will power is hardly called upon to function. And I sing this little tune.

"What this tummy fade; watch me this figure trade
For one so trim, without any fat (only 25 C. to the cupful) or a broth made of some yeast extract, one-half teaspoonful to the cup of hot water, which has so few calories you can ignore 'em. Sometimes a glass of water will suffice. But if you are on 1,200 calories a day and apportion them correctly, you really won't suffer from hunger, and as S. says you won't have to make undue calls on the will power."

I am giving you S's letter to bring out one important point, and that is that on a correct reducing diet you are not hungry and you do feel very much better. At first you may suffer a little mentally, from food longing, on account of certain eating habits you have had. But in three days this is usually pretty well over.

If at any time you do have a real hunger, you can always take 95 or 50 calories of fruit, or a little clear soup, without any fat (only 25 C. to the cupful) or a broth made of some yeast extract, one-half teaspoonful to the cup of hot water, which has so few calories you can ignore 'em. Sometimes a glass of water will suffice. But if you are on 1,200 calories a day and apportion them correctly, you really won't suffer from hunger, and as S. says you won't have to make undue calls on the will power."

We have a pamphlet on reducing diet, which you may obtain by sending for it.

Nature — The Physician
Mrs. J. — It is normal to be well, and Nature is making efforts towards health all the time, just as water runs down hill.

I think if you will reduce your weight very gradually, be out of doors in the sun and air a great deal and get sufficient sleep, I'm sure you will feel better. You have your doctor's assurance that you have no organic trouble, so do stop worrying. Have your instructions on how to reduce? See directions above for obtaining.

Next in importance is the summer beauty kit, which should contain those particular articles which not only prevent the complexion ills of summer, but comfort, and correct them if they come.

No one who has lain awake on an August night fighting the pain of a burned blistered skin will ever again face the summer sun without adequate protection.

An excellent way to stimulate your memory is by planning your complete list of needs and packing them away in a little beauty kit as I am picturing here. You may, of course, buy one all complete or fill your own. I suggest the following items for it:

Boric acid; vaseline, tube or jar; zinc ointment; one box talcum powder; a soft, healing, cleansing cream; one tube of sunproof cream; one bottle sunproof lotion for added protection.

And for a perfect vacationist's makeup, corrective of shiny nose, a liquid sunproof powder; waterproof rouge.

The addition of a little vial of ordinary household ammonia will be of great comfort to you should you find yourself assaulted by a barrage of mosquitoes, touch a drop to the bite and the itching will stop at once.

Protect yourself against any unpleasant thing that might turn up and you may rest assured of a perfect vacation.

Sandwiches Iced Drink
Wafers Salted Nuts

If entertaining your friends on the porch and lawn you will want to serve a cool instead of a hot drink. The fresh fruits so plentiful this time of the year make delicious drinks. The best way to sweeten them is to use a syrup rather than dropping the sugar directly into the cold beverage. It makes a smoother mixture and may be made up in quantity and used as wanted.

Today's Recipes

Sandwiches—For sandwiches to serve for a porch bridge use sardine, mushroom, and olive, cheese and nut sandwiches and some made of your fresh jam and jelly.

Syrup for Beverages—Use two cups of sugar as water. Stir while heating, until dissolved, then let boil for five minutes without stirring. Skim, cool, bottle and keep in the refrigerator.

Lemonade—Mix two cups of sugar syrup, two quarts of water, and if desired the grated yellow rind of six lemons. Add more syrup if necessary and serve with cracked ice. With an electric refrigerator one may freeze a loaf of fresh mint and a cherry or strawberry, a slice of lemon or a bit of pineapple in the cubes and add one cube to each glass of lemonade.

Orangeade—Sweeten orange juice with sugar syrup and dilute by pouring over crushed ice.

Mintage—Add the juice of six lemons and one bunch of mint, cut very fine, to two cups of water and let stand for one hour. Strain, chill, add sugar and ginger ale to taste. Serve with cracked ice.

Currant and Raspberry Lemonade—Mix one quart of currant juice, one cup of raspberry juice, the juice of one lemon and syrup to taste. Chill and serve with ice.

Tea Punch—Mix two quarts of cold green Japan or orange pekoe tea, the juice of six lemons, one can of shredded pineapple, one cup of maraschino cherries—both fruit and juice—and two and one-half cups of syrup.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 27.—During the World war one thing was noticeable—

Neither sides general headquarters ever was kicked into smithereens. Each side knew just where the other side's "g. h. q." was, they could have gassed and bombed one another "ad lib" if they'd wanted to.

Yet they mutually refrained from doing it.

The fact is, both sides were afraid to start trouble. If one side did, it was a cinch the other side would reciprocate instantly. Either high command could have obliterated the enemy high command any time. The drawback was that the high command which began it would have been obliterated too.

What kept the two high commands in everlasting stew was the danger that some irresponsible young aviator, forgetful or defiant of orders would spill a can of explosives on the other fellows "g. h. q." one day or night, with the result that both of them shortly would be smeared all over the map.

Herbert Hoover's and Alfred Smith's "g. h. q.'s" are in a good deal such a stew right now. It is no secret who the couple of young aviators are that they are so scared of, either.

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire keeps Hoover's "g. h. q." in a constant state of nervous tension.

Al Smith's "g. h. q." could get a little much-needed rest if it were not for Senator Jim Reed of Missouri.

Moses is recognized as a "G. O. P." ace if ever there was one. Reed, with his Jeffersonian plane, has a record as long as your arm of enemies brought down in flames and squashed as flat as so many pancakes.

The heck of them both is, they're reckless of their own respective high commands' safety as they are of their own lives, in combat.

Let Senator Moses see a chance to drill somebody with one of those darts of his—of sarcasm—and down he goes. He gets the gun, he aims at every time. But may be there were broad reasons of policy why it would have been better for him to have spared that particular victim. No matter—if George sights a target there is no stopping him.

Hoover "g. h. q." has tried to give a certain amount of direction to Moses's activities by putting him under a cautious superior of figure.

Tut!—in the heat of the campaign George is going to have to a lot of his flying solo. Once aloft by himself, a fine chance any superior is likely to have!—restraining George H. Moses.

Senator Reed does not drop darts. He relies on half a ton at a time of denunciation.

Al Smith's "g. h. q." cannot do without him. He is too valuable. But it certainly hopes he'll be careful—look out for non-combatants, even if it prevents him from bagging an occasional belligerent unit—and not blow up any hospitals.

Jim Reed careful!

Why, he would wreck an orphan asylum before he would miss a chance to transform Herbert Hoover's main ammunition dump into a yawning crater hole.

Dr. Hubert Work, Republican chairman, can talk as he pleases about the various things that are "issues" in this presidential campaign.

Wait until one of Jim Reed's "Erbert Hoover bombs comes crashing through the roof of his dug-out and see if he doesn't give orders for the meanest barrage to be laid down on Smith headquarters that his artillery is capable of.

John J. Raskob, Democratic chairman, is all for a "constructive program" at the present writing.

Watch his expression when one of George Moses' darts pierces some dearly loved comrade-in-arms of his, from the top of his head to the bottom of a shoe sole and see if he doesn't turn his full force of tanks loose.

I met a fellow whom I liked very much. I would love to have had him for a boy friend except for the way he acted when he took me home. I vowed from that night on I would take no more home again. As long as he understands you do not like such actions, Lila, I think it would do no harm to speak. I think you'll find that generally speaking, boys average up pretty well with the girls. Just eliminate the offenders and I'm sure you'll find some chaps after awhile that know how to make their hands behave.

"I know who Whip-Poor-Will is," remarked Sonny-Bunny, suddenly.
"But I am afraid of him. Everytime I hear his cry I run as fast as I can toward home. And I shiver all the way."

"I am glad something makes you realize when it is time to go to bed my son," said Mrs. Gray Rabbit, severely. "But I don't want you to grow up fearing Whip-Poor-Will. That bird really is a fine chap, if he is a bit sad. Who wouldn't be sad roaming about in the dark all alone the way he does? When you are as old as your mother, Sonny, you will learn that you can't always tell a friend by the sound of his voice. Often the softest voice belongs to an enemy my dear."

"I never used to feel sorry for spiders but I do now, sort of," remarked Mrs. Bobolink at this point, and seemingly without a bit of reason. Anyhow Sonny-Bunny couldn't see the point.

"Who's talking about spiders?" muttered he. Mother Gray Rabbit shook her head at him and Mrs. Bobolink continued.

"Nothing makes me madder than to be flying along and to have a sticky web float into my eyes. Ugh! It tickles and, besides, I can't see where I am going."

"Yet that is just what happened only a short time after we had left Lyre-Tail and Nightjar. Bob tried to brush the web off with his wing and stuck a feather into my eye, and I was so cross, that I felt like gobbling up little Gossamer spider, only the poor thing begged my pardon so humbly that I didn't quite have the heart."

"And really the spider wasn't to blame," interrupted Bob. "How could he be, when she never knew when a cool wave was going to strike her web and make it fall to earth and upon anything that happened to be in the way."

Heeney Eulogized In Defeat; Tunney Real Champ

GENE CONFOUNDS HIS CRITICS; VICTORY WAS WORKMANLIKE

Challenger Gamely Died With Boots On But Never Threatened The Crown; Walsh Finds Tunney Worthy Of His Title.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 27.—"I have fought the good fight; I have kept the faith," sang Heeney in his stirring lay and, if he had it to do all over again today, he probably would have centered his lyrical attention upon Gene Tunney's successful defense of his heavyweight championship at the Yankee Stadium last night.

"His head was bloody but unbowed!" Another Heeney masterpiece of graceful rhythm. And just as though the poet had had a reporter's eye cocked mowingly over the edge of the ringside, his eulogy to the indomitable told the story in full of Tom Heeney's courageous but inevitable collapse in the eleventh round.

Battered to the floor at the end of the tenth, he lay outside the ropes, unheeding, a bloody wreck. Picked up by his seconds and toted, feet drooping, to his corner, he was laved and swathed and slapped and badgered into a sense of consciousness between rounds. Then the bell and he was sent forth again, this time to die the figurative death of the ring fighter who, knowing that he must lose, chooses to do it as a game man should and must.

OM Heeney died, the figure of a death of a technical knockout last night. But today they can't say that he didn't die with his boots on nor that the feet they held weren't flush with the floor, holding him gallantly erect at the end.

What, meantime, of the man who fought the good fight, who kept the faith? Gene Tunney did both. No longer may they call him the "champion of Jack Dempsey." No longer is it possible to question his right to sit upon the throne of all boxing and rule his subjects as might please his monarchical fancy. Tunney was every inch a champion. Tunney, viewed from the first row ringside, fought the very good fight last night. And he kept faith, indeed—the faith of his friends who all along have maintained that their man was more than a champion by mere force of circumstance.

What heavyweight champions have we had who could guarantee a more workmanlike performance against a challenger who surprised some of the skeptics with the efficacy of his bid? Dempsey and John L. undoubtedly would have made a quicker and less messy job of it. Jim Corbett would have boxed with sharper, more definite skill. Old Jack Johnson wouldn't have let Heeney hit him at all and Fitz probably would have outslugged such a challenger in a few rounds.

Tunney took eight of the eleven rounds fought, two were even and one went to Heeney. He made his mistake, as even good champions sometimes do, and almost paid dearly for it but, above all else, he is a sensible man and when he discovered that he couldn't afford to make the other man fight, he boxed the challenger's ears right off.

Once only did Heeney have his moment. It was a brief one and unimportant, but it was rife with significance in the third round. Tunney, with the mistaken zeal of a man who wants to confound his critics, tried to play the other fellow's game in the first three rounds and barely held his own for two of them. Then came the inevitable. They were having at it, toe to toe late in the third when Heeney suddenly got home with a right cross to the jaw.

Great chance, that, but Heeney simply stared in wonder and when he finally decided that something further should be done about it, there was nothing further to do. Tunney was completely himself in the time his challenger rushed in with his follow up and even the fact that he was clipped with an other right hander near the bell failed to make further headway upon Gene's vulnerability.

Tunney's Boxing Disappoints Mandell

By SAMMY MANDELL
Lightweight Champion of the World

(Written Expressly for I. N. S.)
NEW YORK, July 27.—I was rather disappointed in Gene Tunney's boxing although his eleventh round knockout of Tom Heeney was a workmanlike job. The champion showed that he could hit when he floored the game but unscientific Heeney just before the bell in the tenth but his boxing was a surprise and a disappointment to me.

Tunney isn't near the boxer I had imagined he was, having drawn my conclusions from what I had read. This was the first heavyweight championship fight I had ever witnessed and I came expecting to see in Tunney a man who was highly skilled in the finer points of the game.

But no—his boxing was only mediocre. He leaves himself exposed to a left hook and a right cross because he carries both of his hands too low. Besides his footwork is nothing to write home about. He knows how to back pedal but that's about all.

It was evident from the fourth round on that it was Tunney's fight. He had before him the type of an opponent who is easy to hit, a good game, plodding, slugging fighter who knows little or nothing about the art of boxing. I realize that Tunney hit him plenty but in so doing he was wide open nearly all the time.

A clever fighter, even Jack Dempsey I'll say, and he goes in more for hitting than boxing, would have nailed Tunney if he came at him with his hands down low as he did against Heeney last night. Tunney was holding his left hand far too low for jabbing purposes and if he had been up against a fast fellow he would never have been able to get in those many left jabs such as he stuck into Tom Heeney's honest, old face. The fault is that Tunney must bring the left up and then stick it out. He should carry that left higher.

Tunney has a very good right to the heart but his right cross isn't what it could be if he shot it over in the right way. In delivering a right cross the champion goes through two motions: he brings his right up and then he shoots it over. He goes through two motions when one would do. If he held that right of his higher it would be a whiz bang because he has plenty of stuff behind it when he shoots. However, a clever man could see it coming the way he pokes it now.

The fight was interesting even though it was so one-sided. After Tunney began fighting Tom at long range the challenger had no chance. Heeney is one of the gamest fighters I have ever seen and he deserves a world of credit. And so does Tunney. When Tunney found he was on the wrong track at the start he had the brains to change and from the fourth on he won as he pleased. He did a good job but Heeney is not a great fighter.

I was surprised and disappointed in Tunney's footwork. He gave the impression that his idea of footwork is to back up all the time. That's all he showed in footwork last night. A fellow who knows how to use his feet in the ring backs up, side steps, feints, weaves and has a half dozen other tricks to baffle his opponent. Tunney doesn't use them.

GOOD HOPE WILL SEND STRONG TEAM HERE AGAINST RESERVES

Frank Grubbs, manager of the Good Hope, O., baseball club, is going to bring a high class aggregation of diamond experts here Sunday to meet Manager Jesse Chambliss' Xenia Reserves.

Information by airmail from Good Hope indicates that the ball team representing that place has won seven games out of ten played this season and expects to make this their eighth victory in Sunday's contest at Washington Park.

With the exception of a few youngsters, the team is made up of veterans, not the least of these being four old timers of the old Washington Athletics. These are Noon, Jones, Knapp and Reno, the pick of the outfit that made the Washington team feared in this section in the past. All of them were with Washington last year when they won the Central Ohio League pennant.

The three games lost by Good Hope were extra inning affairs that went against Good Hope when the team was playing away from home. ## ARRIVAL OF STEEL HASTENS WORK ON PARK AUDITORIUM

With the delivery of two truck loads of structural steel to be used in the auditorium in Shawnee Park work on that building can be continued without interruption, according to City Auditor T. H. Zell.

The two truck loads of steel were delivered Thursday by the Champion Bridge Company of Wilmington, and a promise of more the first of the week has been made.

As it usually is several weeks before delivery of steel can be obtained after the order is given, the home coming executive committee is very much pleased with the fact that their order was given such prompt attention.

The progress being made on construction of the building insures its completion in time for the home coming, it is believed.

YOUNG GIRL KILLED IN ODD ACCIDENT

Marguerite Sebastian, 11, of Belmont, was killed and Charles Scherer, 35, also of Belmont slightly injured when the truck in which they were returning from a picnic was sideswiped by the trailer of a passing truck on the New Troy Pike near Ebenezer, Thursday night.

The girl was dead when she arrived at the Miami Valley Hospital. She was said to have been standing up in the truck when her head protruded over the side, when she was sideswiped by the trailer of a passing truck which was going in the opposite direction.

Cecil Cattrell, 21, Findlay driver of the truck which struck the girl, was not blamed for the accident and was expected to be released after being questioned Friday.

MARSHAL OTEY LOSES FIGHT

Gene Wins But Gazette Character Suffers Worse Than Tom Heeney.

By MARSHAL OTEY WALKER

Sports Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

RINGSIDE, YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, July 27.—Tunney won the fight—but I lost it and two front teeth.

I would have had a swell time if I hadn't sat so near the leading amateur fighter of the world. I don't know who he is except that he must be crazy about socking somebody in the nose and getting a bounce on the ear himself. He ought to get married.

Everything started out nice until the main go started. Just as Tunney started bouncing into me Heeney some usher told this egg he was in the wrong seat. That was the last thing the usher remembered before he became unconscious.

I turned back to the ring and started to watch Heeney. Tom was standing in the middle of the ring trying to give away punches as fast as he could hand them out. Crash! I turned around to see the bozo in back of me knocking the heads of two cops together while he sat on the chest of one of the professional bouncers. After that I forgot all about the big fight. The one in back of me was far more interesting and a lot more dangerous.

The cops must have held a conference and decided that they ought to tackle the fighting fan in a body. Anyway, the next minute a lot of nightsticks bouncing around my bridge work while another raised a two-inch bupb just above the right eyebrow.

After the fan had chased most of the cops away he returned to his seat only to find that somebody had taken it. Well, he just grabbed hold of me and threw me at that other person.

As they were trying to put me in one of the ambulances, and managed to get back to my seat near the ring.

But the championship fight was over. I understand that there is to be another this summer. I suggest they put this fan in with the champ. Then spectators can see all the punches without feeling any of them.

Well, I hope to enjoy the next fight—over the radio.

DAYTON PLACES NEW TRAFFIC RULES IN EFFECT SATURDAY

New and drastic changes in Dayton's traffic code become effective Saturday morning with police enforcement promised.

The new code is designed to give greater privileges to motorists but places on them the responsibility for guaranteeing the safety of pedestrians at downtown intersections.

Vehicles will be permitted to make right and left turns at Main and Second Sts. and Main and Fourth Sts. under the new code, although no turns were permissible under the old regulations. The motorist makes these turns, however, at his own risk.

Police are advising motorists that they must await their opportunity to cut through traffic when making a left turn with the green light and then must go slowly through the pedestrian lane to protect those on foot. Pedestrians will have the right-of-way against those making turns and must have first consideration. Police demand that motorists not sound their auto horns to clear the pedestrian lane.

Three lines will be marked on Main St. to regulate traffic either going straight ahead or making right or left turns. Those wishing to make right turns must approach the intersection in the right hand lane and those wishing to make left turns must follow the lane nearest the center of the street. The middle lane is for traffic going straight ahead. Turns from the wrong lanes will not be permitted.

Police also plan to watch what is termed "crushing" the amber light and will demand that motorists wait for the green before making. Dayton police have created a special traffic detail to regulate traffic under the new code for two weeks with two officers stationed at principal intersections. They are asking co-operation of motorists because the restrictive regulations are being abandoned for more lenient rules.

At intersections where traffic lights are not used, a pedestrian wishing to cross the street may demand consideration from vehicular traffic by raising his hand, palm outward, toward advancing vehicles.

AGRARIANS OPPOSE CALLES IN OFFICE

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—While the most friendly relations exist between President Calles and the Agrarian faction of the Obregonista party, Deputy Antonio Diaz Soto Ygama, spokesman for the Agrarians, declared today that this colleague is unalterably opposed to President Calles remaining in office after his term expires on December 1.

In the meantime the Agrarians are continuing their relentless war to force all members of the labor element from public office, especially from the National Congress and senate.

Luis Morones, chief leader of the labor group, which was forced to resign as minister of labor by pressure from the Obregonistas is still missing. One report was current that he had succeeded in reaching the United States.

REGULATION OF DIVORCE LAW URGED BY JOHNSON IN SPEECH

To prevent some people making a habit of divorce and re-marriage Attorney Frank L. Johnson of this city, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the seventh district, is in favor of an amendment to the Federal constitution which would regulate states in the matter of laws governing divorce.

Mr. Johnson announced this plan in an address at Richmond, Union County, Thursday night.

Mr. Johnson said his idea would be to prohibit re-marriage of a person after a second divorce decree had been obtained, thus "putting a stop to a national scandal and disgrace by checking those who have no sense of obligation for the sacredness of the marriage vow."

"I have no desire to prevent young people who find they have made a mistake in their marriages obtaining divorces, but my idea is to stop those who rush from one marriage into another, obtaining divorces after a few months and then taking other mates," said Mr. Johnson.

The local candidate for the congressional nomination also declared at Richmond for a Federal workmen's compensation act, which would take care of injured workmen employed by firms engaged in interstate commerce for which no allowance can now be made. He referred to railroads, the employees of which are not now protected by the workmen's compensation law, and who in case of accident have to depend upon obtaining an adjustment with the railroad itself.

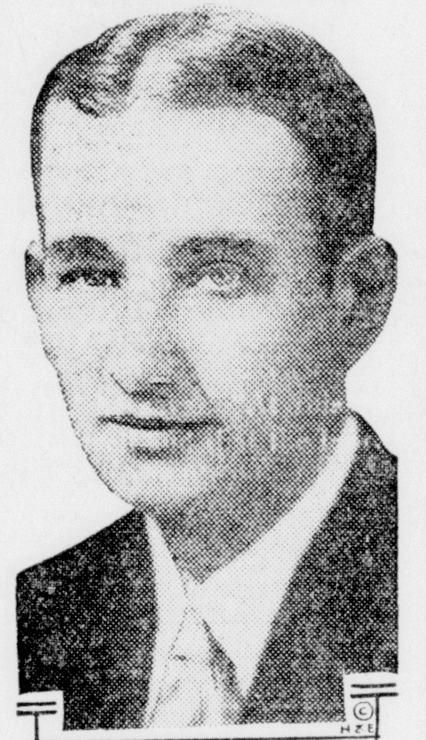

Mr. Johnson also explained his plan for the lowering of local tax rates by providing Federal aid for schools, and at the same time providing the schools with sufficient funds with which to operate.

He said that he proposed, if elected to congress, to introduce a bill by which the luxury and amusement tax would be continued by the government and the money so received paid into the various taxing districts for the benefit of the schools. This he explained would reduce the local tax burden over 50 per cent.

Farm relief to the full extent not inconsistent with the rights of others was also endorsed by Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson and Edward C. Turner, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, addressed a crowd of 3,000 or 4,000 persons at an outdoor meeting sponsored by merchants in an annual local celebration.

TEN ACRES OF BLACKBERRIES

Berries are big, cultivated, coreless, juicy, tempting, sugary morsels. Perfect dessert, jam, pie and canning berries. Customers said, "My, one and one half bushel lost only one quart in canning. Delicious jam. Kept part of berries five days before finished canning and last just as nice as first canned. Why, wild berries begin to break down and juice run out and fill with sour germs as soon as picked and your cultivated berries hardly stain the container, yet are so tender and sweet. I see now why so many of my wild berries canned, pop up. Your cultivated berries reheated slightly when can is opened with a slight sprinkling of sugar added, have that fresh from the patch flavor so pleasing and attractive to the taste. Did not know that there was so much difference between wild and your cultivated blackberries. Will never put up another wild berry."

If you do not know the superior qualities and real economy in canning cultivated blackberries order through your Xenia grocer at least one half of your 1928 supply. WOODMANSEE'S BLACKBERRIES, and be convinced, 24 quart crate $4.32—bushel 22 quarts $5.76. Prices uniform all season. Deliveries in and after week of July 23.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

A journey of about fifty miles from Antioch in Pisidia brought Paul and Barnabas to the ancient city of Iconium where they preached with great success, but met with great opposition driving them to Lystra eighteen miles distant to the south. Here the cripple was healed, sacrificed to Paul and Barnabas was prevented and Paul was stoned. The next day they journeyed twenty miles to Derbe.

Vs. 8, 9. "And at Lystra there sat a certain man, impotent in his feet, a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked." A life-long lameness like this would render the miracle of healing a marvelous fact that could not have been performed by mere suggestion.

Vs. 9, 10. "The same heard Paul speaking, who fastening his eyes upon him, and seeing that he had faith to be made whole, said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet." And he leaped up and walked. The exercise of faith is fundamental in salvation. Paul was so confident in God responding to human faith that he did not whisper but spoke with a loud voice. The works of faith follow the exercise of faith, and produce joy and happiness.

Vs. 11-13. "And when the multitude saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying the gods are come down upon us in the likeness of men. And the priests of Jupiter would have done sacrifice with the multitudes. The multitudes may not have understood Paul but they did understand the lame man who was healed and were willing to admit the working of a superior power which they located in Paul and would sacrifice to him as was their custom of sacrificing to their gods.

Vs. 14, 15. "But when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of it, they rent their garments and sprang forth among the multitude, crying and saying, sirs, why do ye do these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and bring you good tidings, that ye should turn from these vain things unto a living God who made the heavens and the earth and the sea and all that in them is." Not for a minute would Barnabas and Paul allow themselves to be worshipped, declaring themselves human messengers of a living God who was the true God because of what he had wrought as seen in land, sea and sky.

Vs. 16, 17. "Who in the generations gone by suffered all nations to walk in their own ways. And yet he left himself without witness, in that he did good and gave you from heaven rains and fruitful seasons filling your hearts with joy and gladness." Men are treated in a manner to allow them to exercise their freedom of choice which calls for programs where evil is possible. There is an appeal to reason in the orderly workings of nature such as seen in needed rains and fruitful seasons—there must be a God back of it all.

Vs. 19, 20. "Jews having persuaded the multitudes, they stoned Paul, and dragged him out of the city, supposing that he was dead; but as the disciples stood around him, he rose up and entered into the city." These missionaries were making shipwreck of the Jewish faith hence they were to be gotten rid of, the plan being to stone them to death. By a miracle Paul was saved and boldly returned to his task.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What good may result from reverses?
2. How account for the miracle of healing wrought by Paul? Where may be found today similar miracles of healing?
3. Why would it have been wrong for Paul to have received glory for his healing ministry?
4. How account for the change of attitude of the multitude toward Paul at Lystra?

5. How far is public sentiment to be trusted?
6. Of what value are medical missionaries today?
7. When is it best for a minister to change his field of labor?

Clericus says, "The persecuted can not claim the desirable beatitude unless they suffer for righteousness' sake. There is no merit in being deservingly under criticism, but we can rejoice when we are reproached for Christ sake."

Lesson prayer, "O Lord, we thank Thee for grace and strength furnished in time of great need; help us to undertake large tasks for Thee, not counting the cost but relying implicitly upon Thee."

BOOK REVIEW
"Our Bible," by William Hollo-way Malm, The Judson Press, Philadelphia, is a very readable source of useful information for the busy individual or classes interested in the study of the Bible from its earliest beginnings to the present.

THINKING OF OTHERS
An old man who had met life serenely and tranquilly for some eighty years was asked the secret of his cheerfulness. He answered in four words: "Thinking of other folks."

"You can't travel far in this world," he continued, "without finding that your path is all tangled up with other folks' paths. Some people think that if they can only travel their own way without getting hurt themselves, they're going to be happy."

"But there's more to it than that. When you've learned to dodge a collision, not because you are afraid of getting hurt yourself, but because you are afraid of hurting the other fellow, you're getting near to happiness. But when you arrive at a point where it's a genuine pleasure never to cause grief to another, you're still closer. In other words, when you get so far that it's a joy to you just to make others happy, you're about there yourself."—D. Carl Yoder.

fellowship. Similar steps were taken by the Methodist Episcopal General Conference and the Presbyterian General Assembly for a union of these two denominations. A lighted cross to be known as the "Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd Beacon" will surmount Broadway Tabernacle, being erected in New York City under the leadership of Rev. Christian F. Reinsner. Designed to be ten times more powerful than any existing beacon in the world, the Byrd Beacon, will surmount ships thirty-six nautical miles away and will be powerful enough to be seen by aviators one hundred miles distant. The cross is the gift of Chas. V. Bob, a mining engineer.

Church Forum

1. Suggest some plan that will help church attendance when visitors come to a home at the time of public worship.

Rev. Roy Smith says that he succeeded in meeting the Sunday visiting situation by giving to all homes desiring them neatly printed cards to be hung in a conspicuous place in the home, the card having the following printed on it: "This family is affiliated with the Simpson Methodist church and plans to attend the services each Sunday. We know of no better way to express our hospitality to guests and friends than to invite them to accompany us. We can promise helpful and interesting services and an hour most profitably spent. Plan to go with us to church."

Special recognition is given to all present who have brought guests with them and the pastor announces his pleasure in meeting them after the service.

2. What are some things to be avoided when conducting a church school program of worship?

Don't fail to plan thoroughly the program of worship; do not make this service one to fill in for tardy pupils; do not call too often on the same person for the public prayer; do not use set forms until they become mechanical; do not use the worship service for instruction; do not conduct the service while there is disorder; do not expect worship from jazz music; do not allow the scriptures to be read hastily; do not hurry through the service; do not be satisfied with any hymn book; do not make worship an end in itself; do not allow discomfort; do not distribute supplies during the service of worship; do not let late comers break into the service; do not forget that real worship is fellowship with God.

THE BETTER WAY
HATRED FAILS; LOVE HAS NEVER BEEN TRIED.

Have enmity and hatred wrought beautifully enough to justify us to go right on in their ways? Consider the death dealing desolations wrought by enmity and hatred among the estranged peoples of the world. Did love fail? No, it is hatred that failed! Love never had been tried.

The awful burdens that are crushing out the very life of mankind are enmity, hatred, slavery, abuse, distrustfulness, suspicion, jealousy and greed, these are the millstones about the necks of men; these are the sunken rocks blocking the channels to commerce upon all the seas of mankind; these are the barriers fast barring all doors of opportunity to races and nations everywhere.

Mankind must be freed from these burdens. And such freedom can come only through a moral and spiritual regeneration. Mankind must be born from above, for now all men are too much born from below. Jesus alone is able to roll away these stones of offense and set the nations free.

The Church Invites You

RELIGION OUR NATION'S POWER

Roger Babson says, "Statistics of every nation indicate that true religion is the power necessary for the development of its resources and for its successful continuation. The challenge goes out to every man to support his church, to take an active part in the religious life of his community, to live according to the simple principles upon which this country is founded."

"We stand at the cross roads. We must choose between God and Mammon. Materialism is undermining our civilization; unless we heed the warning, our civilization will fail."

The churches allow points of contact with God from whom true religion comes and gives the power to develop the kind of a civilization we want! Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Poems that Live

TO WOMAN

WOMAN! experience might have told me That all must love thee who behold thee; Surely experience might have taught Thy firmest promises are naught; But, placed in all thy charms before me, All I forget, but to adore thee. Oh, Memory! thou choicest blessing When joined with hope, when still possessing; But how much cursed by every lover, When hope is fled, and passion's over! Woman, that fair and fond deceiver, How prompt are striplings to believe her! How throbs the pulse when first we view The eye that rolls in glossy blue, Or sparkles black, or mildly throws A beam from under hazel brows! How quick we credit every oath, And hear her plight the willing troth! Fondly we hope 'twill last for aye, When lo! she changes in a day. This record will forever stand, "Woman, thy vows are traced in sand."—George Gordon Byron (1782-1824)

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming and prominent in the councils of her party, arrived in New York for a conference with Governor Smith and other leaders about the campaign.

THE CHILDREN'S WASHING

THE children's weekly washing. Wee suits of underwear. Their little shirts and bloomers. Are drying in the air.

The twins' small colored blouses. Tom's "grown-up" BVD's. The baby's tiny dresses. Are waving in the breeze.

So snowy-white, so spotless. The children's clothes, so neat; A miracle of freshness, With wind and sun so sweet.

I cannot help but see them— With sentimental mien— This is the one occasion They're ever really clean!

SMITH INSISTS ON DRY LAW ISSUE

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27.—

Against the advice of some of his closest friends, Gov. Al Smith is understood to have decided to discuss prohibition in every one of his campaign speeches in the presidential campaign.

Some of the national Democratic leaders are reported to have told the governor that it would be good politics for him to soft-pedal prohibition when he invades the mid-west and far west but he is said to have bluntly told them that he always has spoken his mind in political battles and he does not intend to change his tactics.

Smith, puzzled about the new atmosphere long after she should have been asleep. The next day she had promised Flavia she would come down in the afternoon and look for a studio. Flavia seemed to feel that was where she should be and she really had been lovely to her.

Janet told herself maybe there was something wrong with her, because she didn't feel she would like those kind of people. It was just because everyone she had always known were just plain old stick-in-the-muds.

She hadn't begun living yet! She shook off the feeling of uncertainty and fell asleep. There were muddled dreams of freakish looking men and women, cellars and caves where they dwelt, and Janet had a dreadful nightmare. She dreamed she was being chased by an old hag who kept trying to catch her to take her home.

Janet awakened late in the morning with the first headache she had ever had, and an unpleasant taste in her mouth that made her thoroughly miserable until late in the afternoon. She decided she did not like cocktails. They were all right when you were drinking them. But when she had read enough about the after effects of indulgence to know that what she had was a slight hangover.

Flavia had called a renting agent early in the morning, and had given him some idea about the sort of a studio Janet would need. A large room with an open fireplace, perhaps a small kitchen and a bath, furnished. By the time Janet arrived, he had called Flavia and assured her they had located CHICAGO, July 27.—Deputy commissioner William F. Russell was slated to take over the reins of the Chicago police department today following the resignation of commissioner Michael Hughes.

Russell will be acting chief for the time being, pending confirmation of his appointment by the city council. It was understood Mayor William Hale Thompson, who is out of the city on a fishing trip, is said to have definitely decided on Russell as Hughes' successor.

Commissioner Hughes' resignation was formally announced late yesterday although he is said to have tendered it to Mayor Thompson several weeks ago.

Her heart beat madly. It was Ballard Riley.

Just what her friend would want, of the maddening evening traffic and searched for a place to park near the hotel.

Janet came down in the clinging rose satin dress, the big rose hat framing her face—tall and carrying herself like a slim little princess. Ballard Riley caught his breath. All eyes in the lobby were upon the girl with the shining eyes who walked to him and gave him both her hands in unaffected pleasure. She beamed with happiness and youth, and the joy of living.

A woman sitting nearby hit her lip to keep it from trembling. Memories—To be like that again! But her millions could buy even one day back. She wondered if the little girl realized her priceless gift and what she would do with it. But she told herself, of course the girl could not realize—they never do until it was too late. Cynically, she smiled to herself. Beautiful girls on Broadway were all alike.

The Theater

What is the trouble with many modern actors? They do not know how to say "I love you," so a violin has to play for them. That, in substance, is the plaint of Max Reinhardt, producer of "The Miracle," in an address to The Universal Society of the Theater.

In his address Reinhardt said the theater is menaced by the noise, the light and the mechanical existence we lead to-day.

"Passion and sentiments do not belong to our epoch. We have found it better to replace them by a series of conventional expressions that are now considered a part of our social equipment. We have uniform ways to smile, to sigh and to love. The social code as spoiled even the actor. . . . The actor of other days, ostracized by society, may have been a wander Bohemian, but he undoubtedly developed stranger and more powerful characteristics.

"Today the flesh is willing but the soul is debilitated and the actor's interest is really elsewhere.

The spectator must be part of the play. The thousands in the amphitheater must be enthralled, trembling on the player's every word. Then he is enabled to cast aside all unnatural reserve and give every ounce of his strength to the role." Reinhardt believes, however that the theater will improve.

Greta Garbo used to be a barber in a Stockholm shop. . . . This reviewer recently witnessed the opening of Gene Buck's latest, "Kingside" in Detroit. A clever study of the "inside" of the fight business with a clever plot and acting. . . . Would Charlie Chaplin be a success or a failure in a talkie version of "City Life" which he is contemplating?

GLIMPSES OF OHIO HISTORY

A Pilgrimage To The Tomb of Simon Kenton

ON HIGHWAY No. 53, where No. 29 comes in from the west, and 55 joins from the east—here is the city of Urbana with its Oakdale Cemetery—last resting place of Simon Kenton.

As a spy and ranger Simon Kenton had no equal. Brave to the point of recklessness, he was a prize captive of the Indians who conducted him from village to village for new and indescribable tortures. Finally turned over to the British who held him prisoner, he escaped and made his way Southward to again join his countrymen in warfare against his erstwhile captors.

Kenton is generally known as a Kentucky hero along with Daniel Boone though his name figures prominently in Ohio history. His last days were spent in Logan County near Zanesfield where he died in 1836.

What a fitting tribute to the memory of the daring Indian fighter that the danger trails of his hectic life have become model highways of these days of peace and progress! And the wigwags of the vengeful savage have given way to the friendly red and white emblem of Loreco Service.

A HANDSOME young backwoodsman; Over six feet tall, well formed and graceful; fair with grey eyes. That was Simon Kenton, Indian fighter, at the age of twenty-four.

people who suffer from disorders of these organs. At the same time Konjola brings new feelings of health over the whole system in general. This remarkable remedy has been indorsed by hundreds of Xenia people in all walks of life. One of the latest amazing statements came from Mr. W. B. Masters, Alpha, O., (near Xenia) who made the following statement to the Konjola Man at the Gallagher Drug Store, Xenia, Ohio.

"Konjola has given me new health in every way," said Mr. Masters, "and I am glad to tell others so that they may benefit in the same way."

"For several years I have been bothered with stomach trouble. Immediately after I would get through eating, gas would begin to form in the pit of my stomach. Everything I ate would sour on my stomach and I would belch up a hot, sour, burning liquid. This gas would stay in my mouth for several hours afterward and my throat would feel as though it was on fire. The pressure of the gas upon my heart would be so great that I thought it was going to stop beating. At night I could not sleep well but would be forced to walk the floor because the pains from my stomach were so great. I would become very short of breath at the least bit of exercise and the pains and misery in my stomach went clear through to my back. I was told by many people that my stomach was in an acid condition. I tried every medicine I had ever heard of for relief, but the trouble still remained with me."

"A friend of mine, who came to visit me, told about this new medicine and advised me to give it a trial. So I got some and began taking it. It is a blessing that I did because I had only been taking it a week when I noticed a wonderful change over my whole system. It seemed to me that new life energy was flowing through my body. I kept on taking this medicine and soon completed a full treatment of it. Now, my stomach never bothers me and I can sit down and eat whatever is placed before me without a thought of after effects. The gas never comes any more and those awful belching spells that I formerly had, are gone. When I go to bed I sleep right on through until morning and when I get up I feel full of pep and vigor. There is not a pain anywhere in my body and I know it is all due to my taking Konjola. I want to indorse and recommend this medicine to other people suffering as I have."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallagher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

EX-GOVERNOR COX, JOHN W. DAVIS WILL ASSIST DEMOCRATS

Former Party Standard
Bearers Enlist Behind Smith.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Democratic campaign managers today answered the implicit "Loft movement" in the south with the announcement that two national standard bearers of previous years had enlisted "for the duration of the war" in the front ranks of the aggressive Smith-Robinson forces.

They are James M. Cox, of Ohio and John W. Davis, of West Virginia. Democratic presidential nominees of 1920 and 1924, respectively.

Davis told Chairman John J. Raskob at the national headquarters here that he is subject to call for any part the national executive committee may select for him in the campaign.

Cox, who came to New York primarily to see the Tunney-Heeny financial disaster, was a caller at headquarters today. Raskob indicated clearly that he had a major role in the campaign selected for the former Ohio governor, but declined to reveal the nature of the job.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was Cox's running mate in 1920, is a member of the executive committee.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who was himself a presidential candidate against Smith in the Houston convention, was a third party stalwart to enlist in the campaign today.

"My first job will be to carry Maryland for Smith and Robinson," Ritchie said. "But I am subject to call for duty in the national campaign whenever I can be of service."

Governor Smith invited Ritchie to New York for "just a talk" today. Smith is scheduled to arrive from Albany late this afternoon. He will take dinner with Ritchie and then hurry to Good Ground, L. I., for a long weekend far from the dizzy din of presidential politics.

Smith will occupy the estate of the late Charles F. Murphy, former chief of Tammany Hall, for his rest. There will be "no politics" there, Smith has announced emphatically. Governor Ritchie plans to return to Baltimore tonight.

The Democratic drive for the labor vote was launched today under the direct supervision of George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union, and one of the founders of the American Legion.

Berry will undertake to organize a national labor committee, with representatives in every state to carry the Smith appeal to the millions of unorganized workers. The campaign among union workers will be conducted chiefly through central trade bodies.

"This is one time wherein capital and labor can join hands upon the political field," Berry said in his acceptance of the appointment from Chairman Raskob, a director and vice-president in General Motors.

The public announcement of former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma that he would support Herbert Hoover, and the withdrawal of Senator Simmons of North Carolina as a member of the Democratic national committee—both of which came on the same day—struck a heavy blow at national headquarters, despite the outward calm with which they were received.

Neither was expected and the repercussion of the double-barrelled uppercut served to emphasize in the minds of the nation strategy board the significance of the prospective campaign in the south. Before the Simmons and Owen statements, the South was taken for granted. Now the territory is again discussed in the daily meetings of the executive committee.

Reports from yesterday's meeting, the first since the two declarations hit the street in print, indicate that the entire Southern campaign program may be reconsidered.

WOMAN DROWNED IN RIVER WAS SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—Neighbors today had identified the body of a woman, found in the Cuyahoga river here Wednesday, as that of Mrs. Frances Monroe, 45, a nurse who lived in East Cleveland.

Following the identification, detectives visited Mrs. Monroe's apartment and reported discovery of a piece of cardboard upon which had been written: "Please notify my sister, Mrs. A. B. McDonald by telephone at McKeesport, Pa." Written in a feminine hand, the note for the present, caused a murder theory to be discarded, police declared. It was at first believed the woman had been slain.

PACKET CHALLENGED
POMEROY, O., July 27.—Offering to post a $500 prize, officers of the Ohio river packet, Senator Cordill, are confident that the Cordill can outrun the Christ Greene, steel hulled steamer that recently won a twenty-five mile race from Cincinnati to New Richmond over the timbered hull boat the Retay Ann.

OBREGON FRIENDS IN RALLY

AMERICAN NOTE PLEASES CHINESE

See Virtual Recognition
In Message From United States

PEKING, July 27.—America's note offering to enter into treaty negotiations with the victorious Nationalists and pledging American aid to restore Chinese tariff autonomy was regarded by the Nationalists today as virtually a de jure recognition of the Nationalist government by the United States.

America, the nationalist leaders said, is the first foreign power to award such recognition. The leaders were highly elated over the American offer, saying it would put the National administration in a strategic position to negotiate with other nations for revision of treaties.

Japanese diplomatic quarters described the note as "a bolt from the blue."

It was pointed out by diplomatic representatives of the other powers that the proposed American-Chinese treaty would be of no practical value so far as restoration of tariff autonomy is concerned until accepted and ratified by the 16 extra-territorial signatory nations.

These are the powers which agreed to foreign regulation of Chinese tariffs and put their agreement into treaty form.

As there are two factions in the Nationalist party the course which the Chinese government may follow is uncertain. The conservatives probably will favor acceptance of the American offer while the radical element may oppose it.

OSBORN ATTORNEY ACCUSED OF FRAUD IN COURT PETITION

Morris D. Rice Made Defendant In Suit To Recover Cash

Morris D. Rice, Osborn attorney, official of the Osborn Removal Co., and well-known member of the Greene County bar is charged with fraud in a suit filed in common pleas court Thursday by Lydia Herring, former ward of the defendant, and now an inmate of the Greene County Infirmary.

The plaintiff, declared an imbecile November 7, 1910, when the defendant was appointed her guardian, was restored to her reason Thursday by Judge S. C. Wright on her application to probate court.

The action accusing Attorney Rice of fraud, and asking recovery of $500 and interest from June 4, 1924, was brought shortly afterward through Marcus Shoup, Xenia attorney. County commissioners are made party defendants in the action due to her interest in having the money paid to them to be applied to her maintenance in the infirmary.

The petition claims that when the defendant was declared guardian for the plaintiff, there came into his hands from the appropriation of certain real estate by the Miami Conservancy District belonging to the plaintiff, about $2,500 and various other sums from rents and sale of chattels. The petition says that Attorney Rice filed accounts as guardian at various times until June 4, 1924, when he filed his sixth and final account and charged himself with a balance amounting to $984.51, and took credit for various sums expended amounting to $484.46, leaving a balance in hands of cash amounting to $500.

The guardian resigned June 4, 1924, according to the plaintiff, but the petition says that instead of "properly and legally" accounting for the balance of $500 by paying it to the plaintiff or to the county commissioners to be applied to her support, he fraudulently, and in violation of the laws of the State of Ohio and in violation of his statutory duties as guardian and in violation of his oath as such guardian and for the sole purpose to enrich himself at the expense of his then ward, actually delivered to the commissioners a worthless stock certificate for five shares of stock in a bankrupt and insolvent corporation known as The Elwood Myers Co., Springfield.

The petition charges that Rice knew at the time that the company was insolvent and that the stock actually had been issued to him, so that he substituted his own worthless stock for the $500 cash in hand belonging to his ward.

The plaintiff says she did not discover the fraud until shortly after July 25, 1928. She is now 80 years of age. She asks a judgment against Rice in the sum of $500 and interest from June 4, 1924 or for a judgment in favor of the County Commissioners in the same amount with interest of 6 per cent from June 4, 1924, and for such other relief as she may be found, by the court, to be entitled to.

The Tunney-Heeny fight radioed party staged by THE GAZETTE Thursday night, pleased the largest crowd in the history of these affairs.

Various estimates fixed the crowd that stood in S. Detroit St. to hear the program, from 500 to 1,500 people although everybody admitted it was the largest crowd that had ever attended a radio party here for any program.

City officials and the police contributed much to the success of the program. Double parking was permitted on Detroit St., before the program started and afterward traffic was barred from the street so that the listeners were not interrupted by automobiles. The police arrangements were considered the best ever attempted for a similar gathering.

The announcer's voice, the referee, the bell, the whistle and even some ring-side comments could be heard over the big horn in a second floor window of The Gazette Bldg. Graham McNamee was in rare good humor and gave a colorful description of the battle while Phillips Carlin, his associate, interested the listeners with his announcements of prominent ring-side fans.

This new-paper extends its thanks to police and city officials and to the huge crowd that responded to the party invitation with orderly attention.

MINERS ARE PAID
NELSONVILLE, O., July 27.—Miners in this section today had received nearly $50,000, representing the payroll of the mines working on the open shop basis in this section for the past two weeks.

This is the second payroll that some of the miners have received since the inauguration of the coal strike over fifteen months ago.

HARMONY POLICY IS ADOPTED BY GROUP; MORONES IN HAVANA

Plan To Designate Man
For Provisional
President

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—Leaders of the Obregonista party were today making every effort to reconcile all its various factions into one harmonious group determined to carry on the policies of the assassinated President-elect Alvaro Obregon.

Representatives of various groups of the party from all parts of the country met here last night and definitely approved this program of harmony.

Deputy Aurelio Manrique, former governor of the state of San Luis Potosi, presided at the meeting.

As explained to the delegates by Deputy Antonio Diaz Soto Y Gama, Agarian leader, the program calls for co-operation between President Calles and the other leaders of the Obregonista party and the elimination of all Laborite officials from all government offices.

The program also calls for the election of Obregonista party members exclusively to the incoming congress and for the designation of a man definitely identified with the policies of Obregon for provisional president.

Soto Y Gama struck the keynote of the meeting in his speech when he declared that Mexico "Required peace—peace based on justice."

For the first time in the history of Mexican politics, a woman took a prominent place in the proceedings. This woman, a delegate of one of the factions closely allied with Soto Y Gama, was given the floor and roundly cheered when she rose to urge the adoption of the program.

HAVANA, July 27.—Luis Morones, who resigned as secretary of commerce and industry in the Mexican cabinet following open charges by members of the Obregonista faction that he was implicated in the assassination of President-elect Obregon, is aboard a ship which will dock here today, according to advice received here.

Morones is believed to have boarded a ship bound for Barcelona, Spain, at Vera Cruz, Mexico. The ship the name of which was not mentioned, is said to be scheduled to stop here enroute.

THREE KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH
ROCKVILLE, Conn., July 27.—Three children are dead today and fifteen others are recovering from burns and other injuries sustained when a motor truck in which they were riding upset on a curve and caught fire here last evening. The three victims, imprisoned underneath the overturned truck, were burned to death before they could be extricated.

The truck was carrying forty children. They were returning to their homes from a tobacco plantation in Ellington where they worked.

Accompanied by members of his family, the governor will leave New York tomorrow for Good Ground, L. I., where he will spend several days swimming, playing golf and resting. This is expected to be the only vacation he will get before his notification ceremony on August 22.

SMITH WILL MEET WITH RITCHIE
ALBANY, N. Y., July 27.—With the first draft of his notification address virtually completed, Governor Al Smith was to go to New York today to confer with Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland.

The new allocations which have been under discussion since the summer of 1926 will not go into effect until after September 1, since all station licenses have been extended to that date.

Political pressure is being brought to bear to prevent any wholesale shifting of stations and rearrangement under the equalization amendment enacted by the last congress.

It is now apparent that congress was not fully aware of the effect of the equalization provision when it was adopted. Efforts of the commission to put the plan into effect have been thwarted and there is a belief that the opposition, which unsuccessfully sought to prevent this piece of legislation, held unworkable by some members of the commission, may have sufficient strength to bring about its repeal at the next session of congress.

Officials admitted today that the move, contemplated months ago, of silencing more than 200 stations, that the ether lanes might be cleared of menagerie yowls, has been cast into the discard and that it is improbable that more than seventy-five of the present 682 stations on the air will be closed.

The commission announced today the elimination of thirty-six broadcasters, who failed to make an appearance at the hearings called to give them an opportunity to show cause why they should not be dropped. Four other stations voluntarily surrendered their licenses.

Out of the 160 or more stations cited and warned that they might be silenced, all but the thirty-six appeared before the commission, most of them backed up by senators and congressmen, and showed that their retention on the air was necessary to the public good. Comparatively few of these will be dropped.

WIFE ADMITS SLAYING HUSBAND
Following the finding of the body of her husband, James C. Gilbert, Akron, O., rubber worker and Wayne County, Ohio, farmer, on a country road, Mrs. Ruth Gilbert, 31, left above, the widow, held in jail at Wooster, O., told Sheriff Albert Jacot, according to the sheriff: "I shot him because he was mean to me and the children." Chauncey A. Felton, 51, of Canal Fulton, O., her brother-in-law, also has been arrested, it being alleged he took Gilbert's body, wrapped in canvas, in Gilbert's auto, two miles down the road under cover of darkness and dumped it over a six-foot bank beneath an undergrowth. He is at right above. Mrs. Gilbert confessed she had shot her husband that afternoon as he lay sleeping on the living room floor of their farm cottage, the sheriff says. The children, shown above, left to right, Dorothy, 11; Jessie, 3; Arthur, 6, and Leonard, 8, have been held in jail awaiting decision of the probate court for their disposition.

THREE YOUTHS TORE DOWN TURNER SIGN
SANDUSKY, O., July 27.—City Commissioner G. J. Schade today had sworn out warrants charging three youths with disorderly conduct and malicious destruction of property, in connection with the removal of a "Turner-Far-Governor" banner in Columbus avenue here several days ago.

The trio, notified to appear in municipal court, admitted having removed the banner. According to the explanation that it did not seem to them that the banner had a place here as "This is Jim Beggs' home town."

Congressman Beggs is opposing Attorney General Edward Turner for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

CHARITIES HELPED BY POTTER'S WILL
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 27.—Conditional bequest of $25,000 to the East Liverpool City Hospital, $50,000 for the maintenance of a brother, establishment of three trust funds, one of $50,000 and two of $10,000 each and cash gifts from $1,500 to $2,000 to seven veteran employees were today provided by the will of the late William W. Harker, wealthy pottery manufacturer, probated at Lisbon today.

The rest of the estate of $500,000 goes to his widow, Mrs. Hannah L. Harker, according to the will.

Conditional bequest to the city hospital here was made provided they have available at the time of his widow's death the sum of $175,000 for use in construction of a new wing to the institution.

POLITICAL PRESSURE PREVENTS COMMISSION CLEARING AIR

WASHINGTON, July 27.—So much political pressure is being directed at the Federal Radio Commission to prevent the much needed wholesale reduction in broadcasting stations that there apparently is little chance for the government to "clear the air," and offer the listening public good reception next winter.

Officials admitted today that the move, contemplated months ago, of silencing more than 200 stations, that the ether lanes might be cleared of menagerie yowls, has been cast into the discard and that it is improbable that more than seventy-five of the present 682 stations on the air will be closed.

NATIONAL TREASURY WILL BE PADLOCKED AGAINST INVASION

Irregular "Drys" Not To Have Place In Party
Budget

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Republican national committee will not finance the multitudinous new "dry" organizations already springing up over the country for action in the presidential campaign.

This was made clear by officials of the national organization who today were engaged in completing the loose ends of their estimates upon which National Chairman Work and Treasurer Nutt will definitely fix a budget.

Reports have reached Washington that many professional "dry" organizers whose scope of activities has been outside of the regular channels of the Anti-Saloon League, were preparing to descend upon the city with an urgent plea for funds.

Among the most prominently mentioned of these many organizations are the anti-Smith Democrats which emanated from the recent conference of southern "drys" at Asheville. Unless there is a change of heart on the part of campaign leaders it is unlikely that any of these organizations will be permitted to dig into the millions raised for the national committee.

At the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League, it was indicated by officials, in the absence of General Superintendent F. Scott McBride, that no such request would be sent to Chairman Work.

The Anti-Saloon League probably will go its own way in its efforts to defeat the Democratic national ticket. It was said. The details of the fight against Gov. "Al" Smith may be handled by state units.

Nevertheless, the Republican campaign strategists are prepared to make the most of the opposition to Gov. Smith on the "dry" issue. Although the question was officially ruled out by Chairman Work, Republican women committeemen were informed by him that the "moral issue" of the campaign would bring women to the polls in larger numbers than usual.

In carrying the drive for women's votes into the homes, with particular pleas for support for Hoover because of his food relief activities during and after the World War, the "dry" issue will not be lost sight of, it was indicated.

DRY LAW FEATURES BAR DISCUSSIONS

SEATTLE, Wash., July 27.—The question of prohibition still crackled and sizzled here today before the fifty-first annual convention of the American Bar Association.

"The prohibition law must be obeyed or amended."

That was the assertion made here today by Silas M. Strawn, of Chicago, president of the organization.

A similar pronouncement has been made by Jacob Mark Lashley, president of the St. Louis Bar Association.

"Violence has increased enormously in urban centers," Strawn continued. "Most of it can be laid at the door of bootleggers and other rum law violators."

"Widespread indifference to the prohibition law has created an alarming disregard for all laws, particularly among the young people," "Crime surveys in New York, Missouri and Illinois reveal a national peril. That peril is growing greater daily."

Mrs. Paul B. Yockey, who is actively interested in the project, says that one court has become partly overgrown with weeds while the other had a bad low spot that needs filling. The courts have never been permanently striped, and the women propose to have them permanently marked with tape.

Mothers of young people who make use of the courts and of the park, are identified with the money-raising project as well as T. H. Zell, chairman of the park association. Anyone wishing to donate either food or money to the project should call Mrs. Yockey, Mrs. H. L. Sayre or Miss Zella Soward.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DANGER SIGNALS—Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder. ## MANAGING A GREAT CAMPAIGN

Those in charge of the campaign of the two leading candidates have a tremendous job on their hands. It is not surprising that the selection of these people causes much anxiety and often controversy.

It is a job calling first for much executive ability. A person without administrative gifts would be running around in circles, wasting his own time and that of his subordinates, letting vital matters go while he attended to non-essentials. The difficulty is increased by the fact that the work must all be done within four months. It is a brief period in which to lead a movement to shape the opinions and action of the nation.

The difficulty is complicated by the fact that public sentiment now says that the organization should not spend nearly as much money as formerly. Publicity of expenditure is demanded, and the party that spends an amount that seems to the voters excessive, may be worse off than one that did not have enough money for a reasonable presentation of its cause.

The men at the head of the national party organization must have the gift of arousing enthusiasm. They must be able to hire their supporters with the desire and determination to win, incite thousands of people all over the country to get out and work for their candidates, and in addition be real diplomats to avoid embarrassing scraps.

STILL KEEPING COOL

It is not exactly certain yet just what the Republican slogan will be in this campaign. But it will be remembered that the party slogan in the last presidential campaign was "Keep Cool with Coolidge." The country did so for four years, but he did not choose for it to keep cool with him for another term.

It is noteworthy, however, that Mr. Coolidge himself is still keeping cool. No matter how hot it may be here, or in other cities, Coolidge is cool in Brule, and Brule is keeping cool with Coolidge.

"The extreme heat reported in the middle west has not been felt in this region, overcoats and furnace fires being in order of the day," it is reported from Superior, Wis., relay point for correspondence from the President's summer camp.

While the whole country may hoop'er up for Hoover, it also wishes it would keep cool with Coolidge.

She used to boast that he was an ideal husband. Now she is a grass widow looking for a new model.

"A silent woman is a lovely thing," sings a poet. Perhaps; but it is hard to make women think so.

Man is still optimist by nature: He never refers to them as get-poor-quick schemes.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

BIG FIGURES

There are a billion and three-quarters of people inhabiting this speck in the limitless universe which we call the earth. Perhaps millions on some other planet, seeing its faint light in the far heavens, call it something else. No matter what it is, it is where you live at the moment, and for only a moment. More than 33 millions of these people most of them knowing little of what it is all about, die every year. The death rate is more than 90,000 daily—about 4,000 an hour, 60 a minute, one every second. Only one man in every thousand reaches the age of 100. And a hundred years is but a fleeting moment in the eternal passage of time. One in 500 reaches the age of 80. Six in a thousand live to be 65. In a mere hundred years there will be hardly a handful of men on all the earth who are alive today. And those few who are alive will be mostly useless curiosities. If we can think only in terms of our little lives on this planet it is not worth while for us to think at all, or to live at all.

CRIME

Those who read these lines today may set it down as a fact that by this time next year more than 10,000 persons will have died from murder in the United States. In one year in one large American city there have been more than in all England. There is more than one reason. Perhaps American court practice, which provides many and convenient delays all along the road from arrest to conviction—when there is conviction—is the principal cause. Some say publicity is a cause of crime. The facts are all against that. There is just as much publicity given crime in Europe as in America. And yet, European countries, compared with our own, are law abiding.

OBEDIENCE

Speaking of crime the record of Denmark is remarkable. Denmark, that peaceful little land that lies toward the north of Europe, believes in capital punishment. It has a law that persons shall be executed for murder. And yet Denmark's latest execution was in 1886.

One writer wonders if the movement to outlaw war is going to mean the abolition of matrimony.

If you must reduce, try being a dejected lover. It is remarked that people don't get as mad as formerly about politics, but if they would get a little madder, they might get out and vote.

All that the candidates have to do is to please everyone without promising to do anything.

The violent exercise most hurtful in hot weather is done with a knife and fork.

These people who are so impressed by non-stop records never saw or heard a sewing circle.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 27.—"Equal rights for men," is the slogan of a campaign which is the result of wrath generated in an anonymous wealthy New Yorker when, clad in knickers and minus a coat, he was refused service at his favorite restaurant. He has hired a press agent and given him the job of popularizing the wearing of knickers by men at all hours and on all occasions.

The press agent is working on a campaign which provides for the hiring of a squad of husky, handsome, beknickered and costless men to regularly seek admittance to exclusive restaurants, theatres, etc., and to start "trouble" is barred. He has also thought out a poster showing a man in knickers and a girl in the so-called flapper costume with the lines, "Why MUST I wear four times as much as she does to be modest?" Another poster he has in mind would show a man in knickers alongside George of England in court costume (which includes satin short pants), and the lines, "If they're stylish enough for the king, they're good enough for me."

Roses wilt quickly in Broadway's searing lights.

Five years ago Patricia Salmon, Montana cowgirl entertainer, arrived in Manhattan on a tremendous wave of publicity, to be a star in "The Follies." For two years she was a featured attraction, then she faded. Now she is a hostess in a Broadway night club, unadorned, unadorned, unadorned, as the phrase goes. She tried recently to get back into the spotlight by entering an endurance dancing contest, and found Broadway had forgotten her name, which used to shine nightly in blazing letters a foot high. But she isn't going back to Montana.

"God, no—not to those two-shack towns. The worst that happens in New York is better than the best out there."

Chicagoans know how to make themselves at home in New York. The other morning a Windy City man issued forth from a night club feeling pretty good, but not good enough to walk to a taxi. All his efforts to hail a taxi were in vain, so discovering a phone box on a neighboring pole, he first demanded a taxi, and then—when told it was police headquarters he was talking to—a patrol wagon. The latter was obligingly sent, and he was hospitably toted to his hotel and handed over to the clerk to be put to bed.

The only explanation is that Police Commissioner Warren recently ordered his cops to be polite to visitors.

The head of a Wall Street brokerage house keeps a grand estate in his back yard. He offers them to visitors instead of cigars.

The preferred routes of a concern which delivers milk in bottles are in the financial district. Drivers seek the because of the six-day and frequently five-day week. Thousands of bottles of milk are delivered in the various office buildings to workers who lunch at their desks.

Before prohibition, virtually no retail milk deliveries were made in offices in the financial district.

What do you want to know about New York? Ask C. K., 2200 Times building, New York, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

I happened to be in a clothing store when a man came in to buy a suit of clothes, accompanied by his buxom, jolly-faced wife. She laughingly apologized to the clerk for coming along.

"I dare say you find wives a great nuisance in here," she suggested. "It must be bad enough to have to satisfy the man who is to wear the suit without having to please his wife also."

"That's where you're utterly mistaken," gravely replied the clerk. "I'd far rather have a man's wife right with him. Then I know that when I sell him a suit it will stay sold. I can make the sale in less time, too. When a man is alone he hems and haws, all the time secretly wondering if the color or material that he likes will please his wife. He is slow coming to a decision because he doesn't know what his wife will say. Maybe after he does make a selection, his wife frowns on it at home, and then the clerk has to sell him a suit all over again. But if the wife's along, the whole problem is soon settled."

Saying it with Daggers
Meeting his pet enemy on Main street one day, Jim observed affably:

"I was sayin' some good things about you to a man this mornin'."

"You was?"

"Yas, I said you had the best cuttin' sheep of any farmer I knowed. An' what was more, I said that pair of hosses o' yours was the finest in Franklin County—worth at least $800."

"Who'd you say it to?" quipped the flattered foe.

FOR VACATIONISTS

If your vacation is to mean all that it should to you, there are certain precautions you will not overlook.

Summer ills may range all the way from poison ivy to sunburn. Considering all the unpleasant things that can happen on a two weeks' trip, the initiate vacationist will not fail to provide herself with good, sane, preventives.

For the first of these I suggest boric acid. For the eyes, for bites, for the bruises and thorn scratches that are part of every child's summer excursions, for a soothing wash, in fact for a dozen antiseptic, refreshing uses this simple solution is unexcelled. You may either buy it ready made or make your own by dissolving two teaspoonsful of the powder in a cup of warm water, which has been previously boiled, until the lotion is perfectly clear. Let cool, bottle and cork tightly.

Often changes of climate or food bring out little blotches on the skin. Summer heat rash occurs frequently among children and young people. For this I suggest the following preparation.

Elderflower water, seven oz.; glycerine, one ounce; borax, one-half dram.

Apply it night and morning, and should the irritation be severe, during the day, as often as required.

"Dear Doctor: If you could only read my diary and know of the many, many struggles I have gone through to reduce, but always with failures! Now I morn do keep, but, oh, how I shall peep.
When I am slim."

I am giving you S's letter to bring out one important point, and that is that on a correct reducing diet you are not hungry and you do feel very much better. At first you may suffer a little, mentally, from food longing, on account of certain eating habits you have had. But in three days this is usually pretty well over.

If at any time you do have actual hunger, you can always take 25 or 50 calories of fruit, or a little clear soup, without any fat (only 25 C. to the cupful), or a broth made of some vegetable extract, one-half teaspoonful of the cup of hot water, which has so few calories you can ignore 'em. Sometimes a glass of water will suffice. But if you are on 1200 calories a day and apportion them correctly, you really won't suffer from hunger, and as S. says you won't have to make undue calls on the will power.

We have a pamphlet on reducing and gaining weight. It certainly gets results. The column rules for obtaining material we offer to enclose 2 cents in coin with a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope for all articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet, for which 10 cents in coin, in addition to the self-addressed, stamped envelope, should be enclosed.

Large Breasts
Miss B.—I think you must be unduly concerned about the size of your breasts, if not even your dear mother knows about it.

It is not unusual at all for one breast to be slightly larger than the other, just as one foot or one hand may be slightly larger than the other. There is only one way to reduce over-large breasts, and that is, general reduction. If there is very enlargement of the breasts which is so marked that the look to be an overgrowth, a physician should be consulted. This is thought to be due to some disorder of the internal glands which govern the functioning of the body. However, this condition is rare.

Your doctor probably treated the matter lightly, because he realized it wasn't serious, dear, and thought you were worrying needlessly.

Nature — The Physician
Mrs. J. — It is normal to be well, and Nature is making efforts towards health all the time, just as water runs down hill.

I think if you will reduce your weight very gradually, be out of doors in the sun and air a great deal and get sufficient sleep, I'm sure you will feel better. You have your doctor's assurance that you have no organic trouble, so do stop worrying. Have your instructions on how to reduce? See directions above for obtaining.

MENU HINT

Sandwiches: Iced Drink
Wafers: Salted Nuts
If entertaining your friends on the porch and lawn you will want to serve a cool instead of a hot drink. The fresh fruits so plentiful this time of the year make delicious drinks. The best way to sweeten them is to use a syrup rather than dropping the sugar directly into the cold beverage. It makes a smoother mixture and may be made up in quantity and used as wanted.

Today's Recipes

Sandwiches—For sandwiches to serve for a porch bridge use sardine, mushroom, and olive, cheddar and nut sandwiches and some made of your fresh jam and jelly.

Syrup for Beverages—Use twice as much sugar as water. Stir while heating, until dissolved, then let boil for five minutes without stirring. Skim, cool, bottle and keep in the refrigerator.

Lemonade—Mix two cups of sugar syrup, two quarts of water, juice—and if desired the grated yellow rind—of six lemons. Add more syrup if necessary and serve with cracked ice. With an electric refrigerator one may freeze a loaf of fresh mint and a cherry or strawberry, a slice of lemon or a bit of pineapple in the cubes and add one cube to each glass of lemonade.

Orangeade—Sweeten orange juice with sugar syrup and dilute by pouring over crushed ice.

Mintage—Add the juice of six lemons and one bunch of mint cut very fine, to two cups of water and let stand for one hour. Strain, chill, add sugar and ginger ale to taste. Serve with cracked ice.

Currant and Raspberry Lemonade—Mix one quart of currant juice, one cup of raspberry juice, the juice of one lemon and syrup to taste. Chill and serve with cracked ice.

Tea Punch—Mix two quarts of cold green Japan or orange pekoe tea, the juice of six lemons, one cup of shredded pineapple, one cup of maraschino cherries, both fruit and juice—and two and one-half cups of syrup.

Spanish Bun
Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe: One heaping pint sugar, three-fourths cup butter, one heaping pint flour, one cup sweet milk, four eggs, one-half teaspoon cloves, one tablespoon cinnamon, two teaspoons baking powder. Bake in shallow tins and frost.

Send this and other material we offer in the column.

Tomorrow: Ringworm.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining ten cents in coin with 10 c. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 27.—During the World war one thing was noticeable—

Neither sides general headquarters ever was knocked into smithereens. Each side knew just where the other side's "g. h. q." was, they could have gassed and bombed one another "ad lib" if they'd wanted to.

Yet they mutually refrained from doing it.

The fact is, both sides were afraid to start a trouble. If one side did, it was a cinch the other side would reciprocate instantly. Either high command could have obliterated the enemy high command any time. The drawback was that the high command which began it would have been obliterated too.

What kept the two high commands in everlasting stew was the danger that some irresponsible young aviator, forgetful or defiant of orders would spill a can of explosives on the other fellows "g. h. q." one day or night, with the result that both of them shortly would be smeared all over the map.

Herbert Hoover's and Alfred Smith's "g. h. q.'s" are in a good deal such a stew right now. It is no secret who the couple of young aviators are that they are so scared of either.

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire keeps Hoover's "g. h. q." in a constant state of nervous tension.

Al Smith's "g. h. q." could get a little much-needed rest if it were not for Senator Jim Reed of Missouri.

Moses is recognized as a "G. O. P." and if ever there was one, Reed, with his Jeffersonian plane, has a record as long as your arm of enemies brought down in flames and squashed as flat as so many pancakes.

The heck of them both is, they're as reckless of their own respective high commands' safety as they are of their own lives, in combat.

Let Senator Moses see a chance to drill somebody with one of those darts of his—of sarcasm—and down he goes. He gets the gun; he aims at every time. But may be there were broad reasons of policy why it would have been better for him to have spared that particular victim. No matter—if George sights a target there is no stopping him.

Hoover "g. h. q." has tried to give a certain amount of director to Moses's activities by putting him under a cautious superior officer.

Tut!—In the heat of the campaign George is going to have to a lot of his flying solo. Once aloft by himself, a fine chance any superior is like to have—restraining George H. Moses.

Senator Reed does not drop darts. He relies on half a ton at a time of denunciation.

Al Smith's "g. h. q." cannot do without him. He is too valuable. But it certainly hoes he'll be careful—look out for non-combatants, even if it prevents him from bagging an occasional belligerent unit—and not blow up any hospitals.

Jim Reed careful!

Why, he would wreck an orphan asylum before he would miss a chance to transform Herbert Hoover's main ammunition dump into a yawning crater hole.

Dr. Hubert Work, Republican chairman, can talk as he pleases about the various things that are "issues" in this presidential campaign.

Wait until one of Jim Reed's "Erbert" Hoover bombs comes crashing through the roof of his dug-out and see if he doesn't give orders for the meanest barrage to be laid down on Smith headquarters that his artillery is capable of.

John J. Raskob, Democratic chairman, is all for a "constructive program" at the present writing.

Watch his expression when one of George Moses's darts pierces some dearly loved comrade-in-arms of his from the top of his head to the bottom of a shoe sole and see if he doesn't turn his full force of tanks loose.

FAIR PLAY

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Being a reader of your column I hope you can describe some remedy for men who are known as 'fresh,' or in plain talk, 'have hand trouble.' Going to dances and parties I have met quite a few fellows whom I have liked. I let them take me home, I believed if a fellow knew you were respectable he would treat you the same. I met a fellow whom I liked very much. I would love to have had him for a boy friend except for the way he acted when he took me home. I vowed from that night on no fellow would take me home again. Please print the answer as to whether I should snub or speak to him again, as I showed I was displeased at his actions."

LILA.

As long as he understands you do not like such actions, Lila, I think it would do no harm to speak. I think you'll find that generally speaking, boys average up pretty well with the girls. Maybe the girls these chaps associate with like that sort of thing and they think you do. Just eliminate the offenders and I'm sure you'll find some chaps after awhile that know how to make their hands behave.

Some time ago I printed a letter signed "Perplexed." It was from a young woman who loved and had thought she was beloved, but was afraid that it had been a dream. Now this answer has come, and the parties who have written the letters alone can tell me if the parts of the puzzle fit, or if this letter is based on a misunderstanding.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: 'Perplexed,' whose letter was recently published in your column, is mistaken. I do care and would like very much to get in touch with this party. I am always home on Saturday and would be there to receive a letter personally. Then I could answer at once."

The Guide—"Yes, it must be over a thousand years old. You can take it from me they don't build such ancient castles nowadays."—Passing Show (London).

So Annoying

"Is that the fire station? May I speak to the captain? Oh, really? Good evening—or rather morning. Reginald Renfrew, of Balmoral Mansions, Nasturtium Road, speaking. Sorry to trouble you at this unholly hour, but the fact is we've a rather serious case and we'd like you to put it out if you aren't too terribly busy."—Punch.

"I know who Whip-Poor-Will," remarked Sonny-Bunny suddenly. "But I am afraid of him. Everytime I hear him I run as fast as I can toward home. And I shiver all the way."

"I am glad something makes you realize when it is time to go to bed my son," said Mrs. Gray Rabbit, severely. "But I don't want you to grow up fearing Whip-Poor-Will. That bird really is a fine chap. If he is a bit sad, he wouldn't be sad roaming about in the dark all alone the way he does? When you are as old as your mother, Sonny, you will learn that you can't always tell a friend by the sound of his voice. Often the softest voice belongs to an enemy my dear."

"I never used to feel sorry for spiders, but I do now, sort of," remarked Mrs. Bobolink at this point, and seemingly without a bit of reason. Anyhow Sonny-Bunny couldn't see the point.

"Who's talking about spiders?" muttered he. Mother Gray Rabbit shook her head at him and Mrs. Bobolink continued.

"Nothing makes me madder than to be flying along and to have a sticky web float into my eyes. Ugh! It tickles and, besides, I can't see where I am going."

"Yet that is just what happened one short time after we had left Lyre-Tail and Nightjar. Bob tried to brush the web off with his wing and stuck a feather into his eye, and I was so cross, that I felt like gobbling up little Gossamer."

"Even only the poor thing begged my pardon so humbly that I didn't quite have the heart."

"And really the spider wasn't to blame," interrupted Bob. "How could she be, when she never knew when a cool wave was going to strike her web and make it fall to earth and upon anything that happened to be in the way?"

"What made the web go up in the first place?" asked the boy. "I have had one of the filmy things light on my nose more than once."

"That is exactly what I asked Gossamer Spider," cried Bob, "and she said that wasn't her fault, either—that no matter how hard she tried to keep her place upon a spot while she was spinning, just as sure as a warm breeze came along it would make the moisture in the web evaporate and then the web would be so light that the breeze could take it anywhere it wanted to, and poor little Gossamer, hanging on to the other end of it, would be jerked right off her feet.

"That is how Gossamer happened to drop on my back while her web blew into wife's eye."

DAYTON PLACES NEW TRAFFIC RULES IN EFFECT SATURDAY

New and drastic changes in Dayton's traffic code become effective Saturday morning with police enforcement promised.

The new code is designed to give greater privileges to motorists but places on them the responsibility for guaranteeing the safety of pedestrians at downtown intersections.

Vehicles will be permitted to make right and left turns at Main and Second Sts. and Main and Fourth Sts., under the new code, although no turns were permissible under the old regulations.

The motorist, making these turns, however, at his own risk. Police are advising motorists that they must await their opportunity to cut through traffic when making a left turn with the green light and then must go slowly through the pedestrian lane to protect those on foot. Pedestrians will have the right-of-way against those making turns and must have first consideration. Police demand that motorists not sound their auto horns to clear the pedestrian lane.

Three lines will be marked on Main St. to regulate traffic either going straight ahead or making right or left turns. Those wishing to make right turns must approach the intersection in the right hand lane and those wishing to make left turns must follow the lane nearest the center of the street. The middle lane is for traffic going straight ahead. Turns from the wrong lanes will not be permitted. Police also plan to watch what is termed "rushing" the amber light and will demand that motorists wait for the green before moving. Dayton police have created a special traffic detail to regulate traffic under the new code for two weeks with two officers stationed at principal intersections. They are asking co-operation of motorists because the restrictive regulations are being abandoned for more lenient rules.

At intersections where traffic lights are not used, a pedestrian wishing to cross the street may demand consideration from vehicular traffic by raising his hand, palm outward, toward advancing vehicles.

REGULATION OF DIVORCE LAW URGED BY JOHNSON IN SPEECH

To prevent some people making a habit of divorce and re-marriage Attorney Frank L. Johnson of this city, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the seventh district, is in favor of an amendment to the Federal constitution which would regulate states in the matter of laws governing divorce.

Mr. Johnson announced this plan in an address at Richwood, Union County, Thursday night.

Mr. Johnson said his idea would be to prohibit re-marriage of a person after a second divorce decree had been obtained, thus "putting a stop to a national scandal and disgrace by checking those who have no sense of obligation for the sacredness of the marriage vow."

"I have no desire to prevent young people who find they have made a mistake in their marriages obtaining divorces, but my idea is to stop those who rush from one marriage into another, obtaining divorces after a few months and then taking other mates," said Mr. Johnson.

The local candidate for the congressional nomination also declared at Richwood for a Federal workmen's compensation act, which would take care of injured workmen employed by firms engaged in interstate commerce for which no allowance can now be made. He referred to railroads, the employees of which are not now protected by the workmen's compensation law, and who in case of accident have to depend upon obtaining an adjustment with the railroad itself.

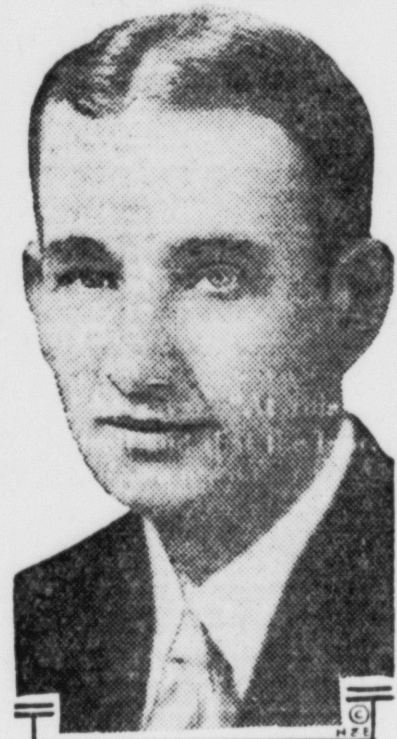

Mr. Johnson also explained his plan for the lowering of local tax rates by providing Federal aid for schools, and at the same time providing the schools with sufficient funds with which to operate.

He said that he proposed, if elected to congress, to introduce a bill by which the luxury and amusement tax would be continued by the government and the money so received paid into the various taxing districts for the benefit of the schools. This he explained would reduce the local tax burden over 50 per cent.

Farm relief to the full extent not inconsistent with the rights of others was also endorsed by Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson and Edward C. Turner candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, addressed a crowd of 3,000 or 4,000 persons at an outdoor meeting sponsored by merchants in an annual local celebration.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

A journey of about fifty miles from Antioch in Pisidia brought Paul and Barnabas to the ancient city of Iconium where they preached with great success, but met with great opposition driving them to Lystra eighteen miles distant to the south. Here the cripple was healed, sacrifice to Paul and Barnabas was prevented and Paul was stoned. The next day they journeyed twenty miles to Derbe. V. 8. "And at Lystra there sat a certain man, impotent in his feet, a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked. A life-long lameness like this would render the miracle of healing a marvelous fact that could not have been performed by mere suggestion.

Vs. 9, 10. "The same heard Paul speaking, who fastening his eyes upon him, and seeing that he had faith to be made whole, said with a loud voice, 'Stand upright on thy feet.' And he leaped up and walked. The exercise of faith is fundamental in salvation. Paul was so confident in God responding to human faith that he did not whisper but spoke with a loud voice. The works of faith follow the exercise of faith, and produce joy and happiness.

Vs. 11-13. "And when the multitude saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voice, saying the gods are come down upon us in the likeness of men. And the priests of Jupiter would have done sacrifice with them. The multitude may not have understood Paul but they did understand the lame man who was healed and were willing to admit the working of a superior power which they located in Paul and would sacrifice to him as was their custom of sacrificing to their gods.

Vs. 14, 15. "But when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of it, they rent their garments and sprang forth among the multitude, crying and saying, sirs, why do ye do these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and bring you good tidings, that ye should turn from these vain things unto a living God who made the heavens and the earth and the sea and all that in them is. Not for a minute would Barnabas and Paul allow themselves to be worshipped, declaring themselves human messengers of a living God who was the true God because of what he had wrought as seen in land, sea and sky.

Vs. 16, 17. "Who in the generations gone by suffered all nations to walk in their own ways. And yet he left himself without witness, in that he did good and gave you from heaven rains and fruitful seasons, filling your hearts with joy and gladness. Men are treated in a manner to allow them to exercise their freedom of choice which calls for programs where evil is possible; there is an appeal to reason in the orderly workings of nature such as seen in needed rains and fruitful seasons—there must be a God back of it all.

Vs. 19, 20. "Jews having persuaded the multitudes, they stoned Paul, and dragged him out of the city, supposing that he was dead; but as the disciples stood around him, he rose up and entered into the city. These missionaries were making shipwreck of the Jewish faith hence they were to be gotten rid of, they plan being to stone them to death. By a miracle Paul was saved and boldly returned to his task.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What good may result from reverses?
2. How account for the miracle of healing wrought by Paul? Where may be found today similar miracles of healing?
3. Why would it have been wrong for Paul to have received glory for his healing ministry?
4. How account for the change of attitude of the multitude toward Paul at Lystra?
5. How far is public sentiment to be trusted?
6. Of what value are medical missionaries today?
7. When is it best for a minister to change his field of labor?

THINKING OF OTHERS
An old man who had met life serenely and tranquilly for some eighty years was asked the secret of his cheerfulness. He answered in four words: "Thinking of other folks."

"You can't travel far in this world," he continued, "without finding that your path is all tangled up with other folks' paths. Some people think that if they can only travel their own way without getting hurt themselves, they're going to be happy."

But there's more to it than that. When you've learned to dodge a collision, not because you are afraid of getting hurt yourself, but because you are afraid of hurting the other fellow, you're getting near to happiness. But when you arrive at a point where it's a genuine pleasure never to cause grief to another, you're still closer. In other words, when you get so far that it's a joy to you just to make others happy, you're about there yourself.—D. Carl Yoder.

fellowship. Similar steps were taken by the Methodist Episcopal General Conference and the Presbyterian General Assembly for a union of these two denominations. A lighted cross to be known as the "Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd Beacon," will surmount Broadway Tabernacle, being erected in New York City under the leadership of Rev. Christian F. Reiser. Designed to be ten times more powerful than any existing beacon in the world, the Byrd Beacon, will surmount ships thirty-six nautical miles away and will be powerful enough to be seen by aviators one hundred miles distant. The cross is the gift of Chas. V. Bob, a mining engineer.

Church Forum
1. Suggest some plan that will help church attendance when visitors come to a home at the time of public worship.
Rev. Roy Smith says that he succeeded in meeting the Sunday visiting situation by giving to all homes desiring them neatly printed cards to be hung in a conspicuous place in the home, the card having the following printed on it: "This family is affiliated with the Simpson Methodist church and plans to attend the services each Sunday. We know of no better way to express our hospitality to guests and friends than to invite them to accompany us. We can promise helpful and interesting services and an hour most profitably spent. Plan to go with us to church." Special recognition is given in each service of worship to all present who have brought guests with them and the pastor announces his pleasure in meeting them after the service.

2. What are some things to be avoided when conducting a church school program of worship?
Don't fail to plan thoroughly the program of worship; do not make this service one to fill in for tardy pupils; do not call too often on the same person for the public prayer; do not use set forms until they become mechanical; do not use the worship service for instruction; do not conduct the service while there is disorder; do not expect worship from jazz music; do not allow the scriptures to be read haphazardly; do not hurry through the service; do not be satisfied with any hymn book; do not make worship an end in itself; do not allow discomfort; do not distribute supplies during the service of worship; do not let late comers break into the service; do not forget that real worship is fellowship with God.

THE BETTER WAY
HATRED FAILS; LOVE HAS NEVER BEEN TRIED.
Have enmity and hatred wrought beautifully enough to justify us to go right on in their ways? Consider the death dealing desolations wrought by enmity and hatred among the estranged peoples of the world. Did love fail? No, it is hatred that failed! Love never had been tried.

The awful burdens that are crushing out the very life of mankind are enmity, hatred, slander, abuse, distrustfulness, suspicion, jealousy and greed, these are the millstones about the necks of men; these are the sunken rocks blocking the channels to commerce upon all the seas of mankind; these are the barriers fast barring all doors of opportunity to races and nations everywhere.

Mankind must be freed from these burdens. And such freedom can come only through a moral and spiritual regeneration. Mankind must be born from above, for now all men are too much born from below. Jesus alone is able to roll away these stones of offense and set the nations free.

The Church Invites You

RELIGION OUR NATION'S POWER
Roger Babson says, "Statistics of every nation indicate that true religion is the power necessary for the development of its resources and for its successful continuation. The challenge goes out to every man to support his church, to take an active part in the religious life of his community, to live according to the simple principles upon which this country is founded."

"We stand at the cross roads. We must choose between God and Mammon. Materialism is undermining our civilization; unless we heed the warning, our civilization will fail."

The churches allow points of contact with God from whom true religion comes and gives the power to develop the kind of a civilization we want! Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Poems that Live

TO WOMAN
WOMAN! experience might have told me
That all must love thee who behold thee;
Surely experience might have taught
Thy firmest promises are naught;
But, placed in all thy charms before me,
All I forget, but to adore thee.
Oh, Memory! thou choicest blessing
When joined with hope, when still possessing;
But how much cursed by every lover,
When hope is fled, and passion's over!
Woman, that fair and fond deceiver,
How prompt are striplings to believe her!
How throbs the pulse when first we view
The eye that rolls in glossy blue,
Or sparkles black, or mildly throws
A beam from under hazel brows!
How quick we credit every oath,
And hear her plight the willing troth!
Fondly we hope 'twill last for aye,
When lo! she changes in a day.
This record will forever stand,
"Woman, thy vows are traced in sand."
—George Gordon Byron (1782-1824)

The Theater

What is the trouble with many modern actors? They do not know how to say "I love you," so a violin has to play for them. That, in substance, is the plaint of Max Reinhardt, producer of "The Miracle," in an address to The Universal Society of the Theater.

In his address Reinhardt said the theater is menaced by the noise, the vulgarities of the large cities. "Both spectators and actors have been numbed by the mechanical existence we lead today."

"Passion and sentiments do not belong to our epoch. We have found it better to replace them by series of conventional expressions that are now considered a part of our social equipment. We have uniform ways to smile, to high and to love. The social code has spoiled even the actor. The actor of other days, ostracized by society, may have been a wander Bohemian, but he undoubtedly developed stranger and more powerful characteristics."

"Today the flesh is willing but the soul is deliberated and the actor's interest is really elsewhere."

The spectator must be part of the play. The thousands in the amphitheater must be enthralled, trembling on the player's every word. Then he is enabled to cast aside all unnatural reserve and give every ounce of his strength to the role. Reinhardt believes, however that the theater will improve.

Greta Garbo used to be a barber in a Stockholm shop. This reviewer recently witnessed the opening of Gene Buck's latest, "Ringside" in Detroit. A clever study of the "inside" of the tight business with a clever plot and acting. Would Charlie Chaplin be a success or a failure in a talkie version of "City Life" which he is contemplating?

EXPECT 450 WILL EXHIBIT IN BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS AT FAIR

Boys and Girls 4-H Club Exhibits have been a part of the Greene County Fair for the past several years and this year, boys and girls, four hundred fifty strong, are coming from every corner of the county to exhibit their work. Their exhibits will include: 280 in clothing; seventy in food clubs and 100 boys in livestock clubs, calves, pig and poultry.

The Greene County Fair has provided $500 in prize money for this department.

In addition to these prizes a number of business men have contributed money which will be used in sending prize winning demonstration teams to the Ohio State Fair. Greene County teams have always given a good account of themselves at the State Fair and club members receiving these trips get some very valuable experience and enjoyment as a reward for their good work.

Business firms who have made these trips possible are as follows:

The Xenia Farmers Exchange, R. A. Kelly Co., Eckerle Printing Co., Bryant Motor Sales, Babb Hardware, J. C. Penney Co., Lang Chevrolet Co., Xenia Kiwanis Club, Xenia Rotary Club.

Other special prizes offered in the various classes include: a trip to the Terminal Market of the boys in the Market Production Pig Club. Financed by the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co., The Adams-Thuma Co., lumber and millwork dealers, Jamestown, O., give a hog box to the boy showing the first prize pure-bred gilt.

In the Beef Calf Club The Criterion gives a special prize of a $10.00 sweater to the boy submitting the best written report of his club project.

E. S. Kelly, of White Hall Farm gives $25.00 as special prizes to boys feeding Hereford steers.

F. B. Turnbull, Angus breeder, offers $25.00 to the boy showing the champion steer, providing the champion is an Angus.

The Commercial and Savings Bank, Xenia, furnished the finances to boys who bought steers in the Beef Calf Club, the boys giving a bankable note until they market their calves.

"Don't fail to see the Club Exhibits at the fair. These boys and girls are the ones who will be our future leaders in agriculture," says J. R. Kimber, county extension agent.

LAMPERTS ACQUIRE ROBERTS LAND FOR NURSERY PLANTING

Forty-five acres of land, formerly part of the Roberts Farm, and lying east of the Pennsylvania Railroad and between the Kinsey Road and the Xenia Country Club Road, have been purchased by George and Harry Lampert of the Lampert Floral Co. from the Roberts heirs.

The deal was completed through Mr. Kauffman, Bellefontaine, O., representing the heirs. The land will be planted in nursery stock, mostly evergreens, the Lampert Co. announces. Sixty thousand evergreens are already planted on the land.

The ground lies across the Springfield Pike from the Lampert greenhouses and retail coal yard and will be operated in conjunction with the other business. The new nursery will be the only one in Xenia, the Lamperts announce.

people who suffer from disorders of these organs. At the same time Konjola brings new feelings of health over the whole system in general. This remarkable remedy has been indorsed by hundreds of Xenia people in all walks of life. One of the latest amazing statements came from Mr. W. B. Masters, Alpha, O., (near Xenia) who made the following statement to the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, Ohio.

"Konjola has given me new health in every way," said Mr. Masters, "and I am glad to tell others so that they may benefit in the same way."

"For several years I have been bothered with stomach trouble. Immediately after I would get through eating, gas would begin to form in the pit of my stomach. Everything I ate would sour on my stomach and I would belch up a hot, sour, burning liquid. This taste would stay in my mouth for several hours afterward and my throat would feel as though it was on fire. The pressure of the gas upon my heart would be so great that I thought it was going to stop beating. At night I could not sleep well but would be forced to walk the floor because the pains from my stomach were so great I would become very short of breath at the least bit of exercise and the pains and misery in my stomach went clear through to my back. I was told by many people that my stomach was in an acid condition. I tried every medicine I had ever heard of for relief, but the trouble still remained with me."

"A friend of mine, who came to visit me, told about this new medicine and advised me to give it a trial. So I got some and began taking it. It is a blessing that I did because I had only been taking it a week when I noticed a wonderful change over my whole system. It seemed to me that new life energy was flowing through my body. I kept on taking this medicine and soon completed a full treatment of it. Now, my stomach never bothers me and I can sit down and eat whatever is placed before me without a thought of after effects. The gas never comes any more and those awful belching spells that I formerly had, are gone. When I go to bed I sleep right on through until morning and when I get up I feel full of pep and vigor. There is not a pain anywhere in my body and I know it is all due to my taking Konjola. I want to indorse and recommend this medicine to other people suffering as I have."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

the class Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ed. Kincaid of Dayton visiting her aunt Mrs. Flora Mason was the guest of honor the occasion being her birthday. The affair was arranged for a surprise for her.

derson property on Walnut St. at auction Friday. Mrs. Ella Babb had as her week end guest her niece Miss Clara Lyle of Waynesville. Prof. and Mrs. Whiteside of Martinsville the new High School superintendent have rented Anderson property. Miss Edith Talbert of Elkton is visiting her sister E. L. Portis.

GLIMPSES OF OHIO HISTORY

A Pilgrimage To The Tomb of Simon Kenton

ON HIGHWAY No. 53, where No. 20 comes in from the west, and 55 joins from the east—here is the city of Urbana with its Oakdale Cemetery—last resting place of Simon Kenton.

As a spy and ranger Simon Kenton had no equal. Brave to the point of recklessness, he was a prize captive of the Indians who conducted him from village to village for new and indescribable tortures. Finally turned over to the British who held him prisoner, he escaped and made his way Southward to again join his countrymen in warfare against his erstwhile captors.

Kenton is generally known as a Kentucky hero along with Daniel Boone though his name figures prominently in Ohio history. His last days were spent in Logan County near Zanesfield where he died in 1836.

What a fitting tribute to the memory of the daring Indian fighter that the danger trails of his hectic life have become model highways of these days of peace and progress! And the wigwams of the vengeful savage have given way to the friendly red and white emblem of Loreco Service.

VEEDOL Motor Oils and Greases, nationally advertised and famous for the "Film of Protection" — smooth as silk, tough as steel,—are available at most Loreco Stations.
